Docks—Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz told farm and trade leaders Wednesday that he wanted Congress to end the West Coast dock strike so farmers would not lose "another billion" dollars because of reduced exports and lower prices at home.

Butz said he hoped Congress would act quickly on a proposal made last week by President Nixon for emergency action to get Western dock workers back on the job.

"I'm growing weary of having our farmers bloodied in scraps entirely outside their areas," Butz said. "We want to get legislation that will prevent erosion of another billion dollars of farm income this year."

Speakers representing approximately 60 farm and trade organizations expressed similar concern over the West Coast strike in brief remarks from the floor. The strike continued for more than three months last year before Nixon invoked Taft-Hartley back to work orders.

But the dock workers have since struck again following an 80-day cooling off ordered under the law. Therefore, Butz said, farmers again are the victims of "capricious and arbitrary and unpredictable" labor negotiations.

Department officials told the meeting that farm exports from Pacific ports last July-September, during the strike, totaled $73 million, only a fourth of the $288 million shipped during the three-month period a year earlier.

Butz said that in addition to the emergency action sought by Nixon, Congress needs to move toward longer-range machinery for settling transportation tieups.

Without such regulations to guarantee export shipments, Butz said, foreign buyers will turn elsewhere for farm products.

Berrigan Parole

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Rev. Daniel Berrigan, convicted in the Catonsville 9 draft-board raid, was granted parole Wednesday by the U.S. Board of Parole, chairman George J. Reed announced.

The decision followed a hearing to consider new information presented on Fr. Berrigan's behalf, including details concerning his poor health.

Berrigan 51, is the brother of the Rev. Philip Berrigan who went on trial Monday in connection with an alleged kidnap and bomb-plot conspiracy involving White House foreign-affairs adviser Henry Kissinger.

Berrigan was sentenced to three years imprisonment for destruction of draft records at Catonsville, Md., and began serving his sentence Aug. 11, 1970.

He became eligible for parole on Aug. 2, 1971, and was denied release by the board on July 28, 1971. The board agreed last month to reopen his case for further review.

Berrigan's parole becomes effective Feb. 24, Reed said, and he will be under parole supervision at Woodstock College in New York City until the end of his sentence on Aug. 2, 1973.

Berrigan presently is confined at the Federal Correctional Institution at Danbury, Conn.

Indochina War

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese command said Thursday that four North Vietnamese vehicles destroyed by its planes in the central highlands were trucks, not tanks as reported earlier.

Lt. Col. Do Viet, a command spokesman, said the false identification apparently stemmed from a mistake by aerial observers. The identification of the vehicles as trucks was confirmed by the joint operations at Peliku, he added.

Do Viet added, however, that several sightings of North Vietnamese tanks have been reported in the South Vietnam-Laos-Cambodia tri-border area, where U.S. officials say an enemy buildup is in progress that could presage a major central highlands offensive.

The South Vietnamese pilots reported destroying the vehicles and killing an undetermined number of enemy troops accompanying them on Tuesday and Wednesday. Two were hit seven miles southwest of South Vietnam's Fire Base 5 about 12 miles inside South Vietnam and the others nine miles west of Ben Het, a border camp that was the target of the last enemy attack in South Vietnam in April 1969.

Military sources told Tuesday of sighting six Soviet-built T54 tanks on the Vietnam side of the border about seven miles south of Ben Het.

The tank sightings lent support to what some officials say are growing indications that North Vietnam is planning a major ground offensive in the central highlands next month.

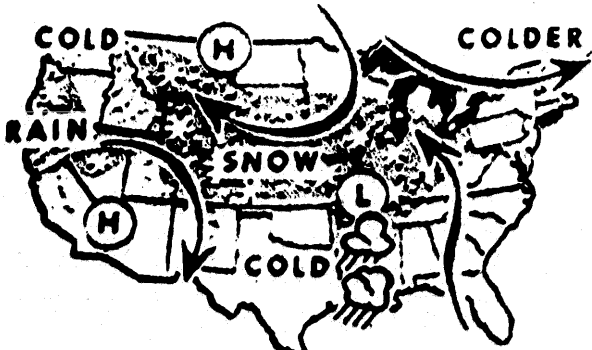

A massive enemy buildup has been under way since late last year in the region where the borders of Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam come together.

Another Hijacker Holding Plane For $200,000 Ransom

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — A Mohawk Airlines plane bound from Albany to New York with 42 passengers was hijacked to Westchester County Airport on Wednesday by a man reported by the pilot to be brandishing a gun and claiming to have a bomb hidden under a blanket.

The FBI immediately sent "several sharpshooters" to the scene and took charge. When the plane arrived at the suburban field, the hijacker allowed the passengers to get off but held three crew members—a stewardess, the pilot and the copilot—as hostages, demanding that $200,000 and four parachutes be sent to the plane.

The crew members were not immediately identified.

Reports from the pilot to the control tower's radio indicated the pilot and copilot had barricaded themselves in the cockpit and the stewardess and the hijacker were in the rear of the plane.

The parachutes were brought to the field from the airline's headquarters in Utica, N.Y., and the airline said it was attempting to collect the money and bring it to the airport.

The pilot said the girl was only about two feet from the supposed bomb, and the hijacker had said the slightest movement of the plane would set it off. He said he had an emery board between two firing pins.

The pilot said he had seen a gun in the hijacker's hand and reported that at one point the hijacker had said he would take the stewardess aloft and make her parachute with him.

Blast Rips Sol Hurok's Office; Woman Killed

NEW YORK (AP) — Two midtown booking offices which import Soviet Russian talent were bombed with incendiary devices and set afire Wednesday. In one of the blasts, a woman was killed and international impresario Sol Hurok rushed to a hospital gasping from smoke.

In the 33-story skyscraper housing Hurok's offices, near-panic followed the explosion. Windows were smashed to let out dense smoke, and onlookers said screaming women appeared on the verge of leaping from upper floors.

Soon after the devices went off a few city blocks apart, an anonymous telephone caller told The Associated Press:

"Two incendiary devices just exploded in the offices of Sol Hurok Enterprises on Sixth Avenue and Columbia Artists on West 57th Street. These two organizations bring Russian culture to this country. This culture destroys millions of Jews. Cultural bridges of friendship will not be built over the bodies of Soviet Jews."

Before he hung up, the caller voiced the "Never Again" slogan of the militant Jewish Defense League, which has conducted a campaign of harassment of Soviet diplomats in this country in protest of what it terms mistreatment of Jews in Russia.

In the past, the JDL has endorsed bombing of Russian property here, without accepting responsibility for such deeds. This time a JDL spokesman suggested the telephone caller was a provocateur trying to discredit the organization, and added: "We deplore an attack of this nature upon an American organization."

Police Commissioner Patrick Murphy said incendiary devices were used and called the bombings "outright murder."

In Washington, State Department spokesman Charles W. Bray called the bombings "reprehensible."

David M. Blumberg, international president of B'nai B'rith, a Jewish service organization, said the bombings were shameful and senseless, and "insane violence in the name of Soviet Jews is a cruel disservice to their struggle."

Rabbi Oscar Groner, an official of B'nai B'rith's campus youth movement, said college youths who are militant activists in behalf of Soviet Jews "are outraged by such tactics because they undermine a humanitarian cause."

The fatality was a receptionist in Hurok's office, Iris Kones, 27.

She was one of three women overcome by smoke in the Hu-rok office, which occupies the entire 20th floor of a skyscraper at Sixth Avenue and 56th Street. Fire officials said a window had been smashed in time she might have survived.

The streamlined, modern building was designed so windows could not be readily opened.

Hurok was one of six persons taken to hospitals because of smoke inhalation. He was treated and released.

The 83-year-old impresario long has been one of the most ardent sponsors of Soviet culture in this country. He has brought here such attractions as the Bolshoi Ballet, the Soviet Union State Symphony and numerous famed Russian concert soloists.

The detonation at Columbia Artists touched off a brief fire that scorched walls and flooring and burned holes in some office furniture. Files were removed before the flames could reach them.

The office is on the ground floor of a West 57th Street building between Sixth and Seventh avenues, opposite Carnegie Hall.

As police and fire apparatus converged on the scene of the two blasts, traffic was hopelessly snarled for a time on two of the busiest streets in midtown—Sixth Avenue and 57th Street.

PARIS (AP) — The North Vietnamese have dismissed President Nixon's Indochina speech as a political maneuver and claimed he broke a promise by disclosing secret talks between Henry Kissinger and the Communist delegation to the Paris peace talks.

Initial Soviet reaction to the Tuesday night speech was negative, but the non-Communist world's response was generally favorable. Although some U.S. allies in Asia were cautious, there were expressions of hope that the plan would lead to settlement of the war.

The North Vietnamese delegation's angry reaction Wednesday to Nixon's address followed an unfavorable comment by the North Vietnamese radio. It said there was "nothing new" in Nixon's plan for setting a U.S. troop withdrawal deadline and new South Vietnamese elections in return for release of U.S. prisoners of war.

But neither the statement nor the North Vietnamese broadcast rejected the proposals.

Moscow's regular evening radio news program Wednesday said it "contains not a word on readiness of the United States" to withdraw its military units—including air and naval forces—from the other countries of Indochina.

According to the Nixon plan text released by the White House, "withdrawal of outside forces from Indochina" would be one matter subject to international supervision.

The Moscow announcer said the statement indicates "the United States intends to attempt to keep in power the pro-American regime in Saigon." He predicted that Washington would approach the Paris peace talks "from a position of force and insist on unconditional acceptance of the plan."

A statement by the North Vietnamese delegation to the peace talks asserted Nixon made more threats and this was a "brazen challenge" to the American people. Moreover, it added, his speech "testified to his perfidious maneuver to deceive the American electorate in this election year."

Soviets, Allies Propose Cutbacks

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — The Soviet Union and its allies proposed Wednesday a cutback in the armed might of the East and West in Europe—home armies as well as foreign forces.

This came out of a two-day summit meeting of the Communist Warsaw Pact—the defense organization of the Soviet Union, Poland, East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria.

A statement at the end of the meeting said: "It would be in the interests of strengthening European security to arrive at an agreement on the reduction of armed forces and armaments in Europe."

It added that negotiations on troop reductions "cannot be the exclusive matter of the existing military-political groupings in Europe."

The Soviet bloc proposal suggested reductions in both home armies and military forces on foreign soil. The latter would include U.S. troops in Western Europe and Soviet troops in Eastern Europe.

The West also has proposed mutual East-West cutbacks and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization has proposed that its former secretary general, Manlio Brosio of Italy, go to Moscow to begin discussions.

The Soviet Union, however, has never replied to the proposal for talks with Brosio.

The form for negotiating of mutual force reductions would have to be worked out, the Prague statement said. It advocated an all-European security conference by the end of this year.

The declaration said talks in Helsinki in preparation for the conference, proposed by Finland, should be started as soon as possible.

The Warsaw Pact countries have already chosen their delegates for such talks, they declared.

Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and party leaders and premiers of the seven Warsaw Pact countries signed the declaration today in Prague Castle, overlooking the Czechoslovak capital.

The statement on reduction of forces was believed the most precise so far issued by the Soviet bloc, particularly in that it specified both home armies troops on foreign soil.

Irving Repeats His Claims About Book

NEW YORK (AP) — Author Clifford Irving arrived from Spain on Wednesday and reiterated that he personally handed Howard R. Hughes a $275,000 check for the billionaire's autobiography. Irving said Hughes replied: "Thanks."

But Irving, arriving at Kennedy Airport with his wife, declined to be questioned further, saying he had lost his voice in talking with reporters in Spain.

The money part of payments McGraw-Hill says it made to Hughes through Irving later was deposited and then withdrawn from a Swiss bank by a mystery woman.

Three checks were involved in the case, Irving said in an affidavit last week he personally gave Hughes one check for $50,000 and another for $275,000.

He said he gave the third, for $325,000, to a man he knew as a Hughes aide.

At the airport, Irving was asked whether he personally gave Hughes a check for $325,000.

Irving's attorney, Martin Ackerman, interrupted to say, "We don't want to be pinned down to amounts right now."

Irving then said, "No, it was for $275,000."

Meanwhile, an affidavit in which Hughes denied cooperating in the preparation of Irving's book and another book about his life was ruled valid Wednesday by a State Supreme Court justice.

Justice Gerald P. Culkin made the ruling after hearing (Turn To Page 24)

Council Exempts Private Colleges

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council Wednesday exempted from price control the tuition fees and room and board charges of private, nonprofit schools, colleges and universities.

The council turned down an exemption requested for private schools which operate for profit, director Donald Rumsfeld announced.

The decision affects thousands of church-related schools and other private educational institutions across the country. However, the council had no estimate of the scope of the exemption.

The exemption was recommended by the Price Commission.

The decision places nonprofit educational institutions on the same basis as publicly operated educational institutions, Rumsfeld said.

Tuition and other charges public schools were covered a previous exemption of certain fees and charges of state and local governments.

The council said tuition fees charged by nonprofit educational institutions "are usually insufficient to cover educational costs."

The exemption will end unnecessary red tape and paperwork not only for the schools but also for the Price Commission, Rumsfeld said.

The Peace Corps Budget Backfires

The Constitution forbids Congress from passing any ex post facto laws. That is, it may not make a law retroactive in order to punish someone for an act that was not illegal at the time it was committed.

There is nothing, however, to prevent Congress from passing money bills which have the ex post facto effect of penalizing a federal agency for spending money it was formerly authorized to spend.

This is the kind of pickle the beleaguered Peace Corps finds itself in.

Last January, President Nixon recommended that Congress appropriate $71.2 million for the agency for fiscal 1972, beginning July 1, 1971. In June he amended this request to $82.2 million because of the sustained higher level of volunteer applications as the Peace Corps staged an encouraging comeback from the doldrums of the late 1960s.

In July, unable to agree upon a budget authorization, Congress passed a continuing resolution setting the Peace Corps' spending ceiling at an annual rate of $82.3 million.

In October, Congress lowered this to $77.3 million and then in December, just before adjournment, passed another continuing resolution setting the ceiling at $72 million.

Because the new ceiling comes when fiscal '72 is half-way through (it ends June 30), what appears to be a modest $10 million reduction is having the effect that a $30 million cut would have had at the beginning of the fiscal year.

Each time Congress reduces the Peace Corps' "annual" budget, it has the ex post facto result of making an overexpenditure out of what was formerly legal spending. Thus funds spent in good faith under previously higher authorizations have to be recouped in the remaining months of the fiscal year.

Belt-tightening is of no avail. The only way the Peace Corps can live within its present budget is by wholesale slashing of volunteers and staff.

Director Joseph R. Blatchford has frozen new applications to join the corps and has ordered contingency plans prepared to bring home upwards of 4,000 volunteers — more than half the total now abroad. This could require termination of Peace Corps programs in 15 countries and reductions in 40 other countries.

It is not that the Peace Corps does not have friends in Congress, many friends. It is just that its few enemies are well placed on Senate and House committees.

Unable to kill the organization outright, they seem to be trying to bleed it to death little by little.

The Political Aura

In his State of the Union message President Nixon called for "high statesmanship" and lofty resistance to partisan pressures, then proceeded to give an address which his opponents view as the kickoff of his re-election campaign. There is nothing surprising about this—neither the appeal for a bipartisan approach to the nation's problems and aspirations, nor the Democrats' somewhat cynical reaction.

The fact is that there are many precedents for employing the State of the Union address in January of a presidential election year to set forth the basis of the campaign whereby the incumbent hopes to retain his office. The present "outs" cannot raise too much of a fuss about it, being aware that in happier days (for them) their standard bearers have indulged in the same practice.

Calling attention to this is not an exercise in fruitless cynicism. The fact is, we strongly concur in President Nixon's insistence that "there are great national problems that are so vital they transcend partisanship." The point we make is simply that it would be unrealistic to suppose that this is the way either Congress or the President is going to go at the matter in the months ahead.

The State of the Union speech, considered with what impartiality we can muster, was not one that ploughed new ground and offered a galaxy of new ideas. In essence it was a speech that reminded Americans of unfinished business and said in effect, Let's get on with the job. This approach has its virtues. Congress has in fact failed to act on a number of important proposals submitted to it, and could occupy its time well in dealing with them.

Mr. Nixon's political opponents have, however, lost no time in pointing out what they regard as notable omissions and flaws in his catalogue of major concerns and what ought to be done about them. Thus we get at once into a more or less partisan confrontation, and this is certain to become more intensive as we get deeper into the essential business of choosing a president for the next term. It could scarcely be otherwise in an election year.

Russ Move Again To Offset Nixon's China Visit

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
The Russians have made the next natural move to offset President Nixon's visit to Peking.

Having won the diplomatic advantage in India as a result of their support of India in the Indian-Pakistan war, they are now moving on Tokyo with a visit from Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, possibly to be followed by one from Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin.

The objective, of course, is to prevent development of any sort of Washington-Peking-Tokyo axis isolating the Soviet Union, and to win, if not Japan's active support in the Soviet quarrel with the Peking regime, at least its neutrality.

Gromyko's visit is being billed by Moscow as one in a "regular" series of consultations between the two countries as agreed upon in 1966 but never acted upon since the visit of Japan's foreign minister to Moscow in 1967.

Marked Softening
It coincides with a marked softening of the Soviet press campaign against Japanese "militarism" and red carpet treatment accorded Kenzo Kono, president of the Japanese diet's upper house, including a suggestion from Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny that now might be a good time to sign a Japanese-Soviet peace treaty formally ending World War II.

The Russians will have to do a little more than smile.

The return by the United States of Okinawa to Japan left four small Russian-held islands of the northern Kuril chain as the only Japanese territory remaining in alien hands from the war.

Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato has made return of the islands a major issue, and it is doubtful if any Japanese government could do otherwise and survive.

On the other hand, the Soviets, aware of the Pandora's box that would be opened with the surrender of any territory have declared possession of the island's non-negotiable.

A Suggestion
There has been a suggestion the Russians might be willing to surrender the two smallest of the four, Habomai and Shikotan, but not the largest, Etorofu and Kunashiri. The islands lie just off Japan's main northernmost island of Hokkaido and are in the midst of rich fishing grounds.

The Soviets at present hold a dozen or so Japanese fishermen accused of fishing within a 12-mile limit.

A better possibility of agreement between the two countries lies in the development of Soviet eastern Siberia with its riches of timber, natural gas, oil and other minerals.

In 1968, Japan signed a deal to supply $163 million in machinery and consumer goods in return for Siberian timber.

The Russians are said to be holding out the possibility of $1 billion in other deals if the Japanese will agree to long-term credits which they have been reluctant to do.

At any rate, the Japanese, buffeted diplomatically by U.S. moves toward China and economically by devaluation of the dollar, are enjoying the driver's seat and probably will make no move soon.

China Is Moving In On Thailand

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA)—This reporter has received two most disquieting letters—from Bangkok and Hong Kong—on recent gains by guerrilla forces in Thailand.

Especially alarming is the evidence of mainland China's increasing role in that insurgency.

Border police have recently come across a camp in northeast Thailand staffed by Chinese instructors, along with North Vietnamese.

Selected insurgents are being sent to China for military training, though the majority of the guerrilla troops still receive their basics in North Vietnam and Communist camps in Laos. Apparently the China training is for technical sergeants and other specialists, officers and NCO leadership.

The "Voice of the People of Thailand" radio, believed based in Yunnan, China, blasts relentlessly away for the guerrillas and against the Thai government.

The Communist Chinese apparently are funding an important segment of the insurgency through a sharp step-up in smuggling. Funds from this underground trade are also being used widely to corrupt numbers of lower and middle echelon members of the Thai bureaucracy, and perhaps higher officials as well, though here the facts are hard to come by.

Chinese smugglers are deeply involved in the opium traffic. Chinese arms are moving into Thailand in increasing numbers, their shipment aided considerably by the Chinese-built road from Yunnan, through Laos, now to within 40 miles of the Thai border.

In the past, the guerrilla forces have been largely confined to hill-country Meo tribesmen in the extreme north, to Thai-Lao and immigrant Vietnamese living on the northeastern Thai frontier and to jungle forces on the Malaysia-Thailand border in the southwest.

But recently, northern guerrillas have been gradually moving down from their hills, heading for lowland villages to the south. They are setting up political units among the ethnic Thai. Local citizens are being organized to confront their officials with grievances and trained in setting up demonstrations.

Mao's works have been translated into Thai and copies are beginning to appear in these areas. Small mobile village guerrilla units are being organized in some numbers even in these predominantly Thai areas for the first time.

Reports are that about 150 hard-core insurgents have been shifted from the northern mountain area even farther south to Chon Daen, in central Thailand, just 175 miles north of Bangkok, to set up a headquarters for penetration of the areas near the capital city.

It is now known that the fears set off in Bangkok by the Communist expansion, and Peking's part in the insurgency, played an important part in the Thai military coup of a short time

The new Thai government is in the process of reorganizing its counter-insurgency operations.

The ineffective heavy anti-guerrilla strikes will be cut back. There will be a stepup in small operations. The plan (Turn To Market Page)

Ann Landers: Considers No-Dropping-In Policy Cold And Formal

Dear Ann Landers: In a recent column you stated that your married daughter does not have a key to your place and you don't have a key to hers. You made it clear that neither drops in on the other uninvited and you are guests in each other's homes.

I was shocked by this public confession of formality between a mother and her daughter. Don't you realize that a child is a child all of her life and marriage does not change it?

I have two daughters, both married, and an unmarried son. The girls come and go as they please and it's always a pleasure to see them. I would consider it an insult if they felt they had to telephone me before coming over. The arm's length arrangement you describe suggests a cold and formal relationship. It would be very interesting to know what your daughter thinks about being a guest in her mother's home.—From Missouri

Dear From: Only my daughter can answer that question, so I asked her. Here's Margo—herself a mother of three children:

Dear From: Relatives who wander in and out of each other's homes strike me as being long on time and short on manners. To announce one's visit in advance—instead of just popping in—is nothing more than an acknowledgment of love's elder brother, respect.

It seems to me that one of the greatest favors a mother can do for her children is to raise them to be independent. One way to build independence is by discouraging continuous traffic in and out of one another's homes.

Your conclusion that a policy of no dropping-in is the hallmark of a cold and formal relationship is erroneous. To my way of thinking, it denotes consideration for another person's time and privacy. I would do no less for a friend—and my mother and I are very good friends indeed.

Dear Ann Landers: We, the 32 undersigned members of the Golden Crescent Square Dance club of Lorain, Ohio, take strong exception to the letter from the woman in Billings who blamed square dancing for her husband's involvement with another woman.

Square dancing is one of the cleanest, healthiest, most wholesome pastimes in the world. To knock this joyous tradition is an insult to the thousands of people who enjoy it. Square dancing should not be condemned because one husband in Billings can't behave himself. Set the record straight.—Perturbed Members

Dear Perturbed Members: Far be it for me to knock square dancing. Some of my best friends are square dancers. The fault lies with that guy in Billings and not with the dance. The scoundrel would have found a playmate in a church choir—if one were available. I am sorry I failed to make the point. My apologies to all the clean, healthy, wholesome square dancers everywhere.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a physician who must take mild issue with your advice to the woman to consult a plastic surgeon for a face-lift.

While the counsel was not wrong, it was misleading and discriminatory. Plastic surgeons are not the only ones who do face-lifting. Other surgeons—otolaryngologists, head and neck surgeons, general surgeons and maxillo-facial surgeons—also perform this type of reconstruction.

Thus when you advise readers to see a plastic surgeon, you are inadvertently making referrals to one kind of doctor and excluding the others. I hope you will, in the name of fairness, make this clear in a subsequent column and instead of suggesting a "plastic surgeon," say "a qualified surgeon." Thank you.—J.R.L. (M.D.), Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia

Dear J.R.L.: Here's the subsequent column, and I appreciate your having called this to my attention.

One foreign economist, however, estimated that in one year the country could be well on the road to its pre-civil war economic level and that it may take as little as two years for it to reach that point.

Jute The Key
The key to everything is jute. The area of East Pakistan, now held by the Bengalis was the world's chief producer of jute. Milled jute for carpet backing, jute bales and other products of the fiber plant accounted for 90 per cent of all foreign exports from East Pakistan in the 1969-70 fiscal year, the last complete one before the start of the civil war. Jute exports in that year brought $333 million in foreign exchange to Pakistan.

It is on the sale of jute that Bangladesh government officials are basing all their rosy dreams for the future. "Jute will save us," remarked one in tones that sounded like an evangelist, and with something of the same degree of faith.

A Struggle of Its Own
But jute, like other natural fibers, is locked in a struggle to hold its own against synthetics. Disruption of supplies to the world jute market may have resulted in a permanent reduction of demand. Manufacturers who have changed to synthetics are unlikely to go back to the natural product. There are large quantities of harvested jute in Bangladesh, but no way to mill and ship it. Chalna, the major jute exporting port, is blocked by sunken vessels and may not be cleared for months.

Chittagong port is operating but the river boats that bring jute down from the north are not equipped for coastal sailing and the government has no larger vessels.

Bridges Destroyed
Retreating Pakistani troops destroyed the half-dozen largest rail bridges in the country. There are not enough trucks to transport more than a fraction of the jute crop, even if all the roads were passable.

In addition to the transportation problem, major mills such as the Adamjee plant, the world's largest jute mill 14 miles south of Dacca, are all idle. The majority of the managers and technicians were

West Pakistanis.

Tea is another crop upon which the Bengalis are placing hope. But Bangladesh tea is of poor quality. Most exports in the past have been to West Pakistan, and it may not be able to compete on the world market.

All economic problems come back eventually to the international status of the country. To get the jute moving, transportation facilities must be restored, which requires financial and technical assistance.

Such aid depends on recognition by countries that can give it. The whole burden now falls on India, which has huge economic problems of its own. UN Seat Would Help

International recognition and a seat in the United Nations would bring desperately needed credits and long-term loans from such organizations as the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank. These could be used to purchase food, motor vehicles, machinery, communications equipment and petroleum products.

At present Bangladesh has no foreign exchange at all, raising the strong possibility that no country will be willing to sell it anything. The currency is backed only by "the faith of our people," as one member of the government put it.

Any division of assets and obligations between the two former wings of Pakistan depends on whether the government in Islamabad is willing to accept the reality of a separate nation of Bangladesh. Once that acceptance comes the whole matter will have to be negotiated.

Heavy Investments
Bangladesh has heavy investment from West Pakistan, especially in the jute industry. The management of the mills has been taken over by the government, which has so far stopped short of announcing nationalization of the industry. The Pakistanis, on the other hand, have all the planes that belong to Pakistan International Airlines and all the ships belonging to the state shipping corporation. The Bengalis want half of these to start their own airline and shipping corporation. But this lies in the future. The immediate task facing the government is the restoration of all forms of communication throughout the country, a job which is already underway but which will take months to complete even with foreign assistance.

Polly's Pointers

Here's How To Get Rid Of Dog Hairs On Carpet

By POLLY CRAMER
DEAR POLLY—If Mrs. P.W. will use a slightly wet sponge mop for going over her indoor-outdoor carpet, just as she would use a broom, the long dog hairs will come up easily. The damp sponge seems to roll the hair off the rug.—MISS M.B.C.

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell Mrs. P.W. that I take the attachments off my vacuum sweeper and just use the hose on my indoor-outdoor carpet. I work it back and forth, and it removes my dog's white hairs from a dark green carpet.—MRS. E.A.

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. P.W. will find the friction from the vacuum brush for hardwood floors will mat the dog hairs together and make them easier to remove from indoor-outdoor carpet. I use this brush on all my carpeting and think it does a better job than the carpet attachment.—MRS. E.D.

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY—The buttons will not stay on my "wet look" coat and there are holes where the material has torn as a result of constantly resewing the buttons. Otherwise this coat is in very good condition. I hate to have it just hanging in the closet so would appreciate any suggestions or help.—CATHERINE

DEAR POLLY—Garden hose has a way of often being scattered all over the back yard. My husband bought some tires from a junk yard for his stock car and had a lot of rims left over. I painted one and hung it over our outside water spout, and then wrapped the hose around it. No more messy garden hose in our yard.—MRS. N.W.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is to be looking around in a store and see a sign reading, "Handle at your own risk. If broken, consider this sold," and the price tags are all on the bottoms or backs where they cannot be seen unless the article is picked up.—MRS. B.J.E.

YOUR BIRTHDAY AND HOROSCOPE

By STELLA WILDER

THURSDAY, JANUARY 27—Born today, you are inclined to worry more than is good for you. Rather than work toward the resolution of your problems, you often merely sit and think about them, forgetting that it generally takes something more than a knack for mulling things over to bring the proper answers and the proper questions together. Impulse seldom has anything to do with your actions; rather, you consider carefully the possible results of your activities before you engage in them, becoming involved only when convinced that the ends will be beneficial.

You will always have some difficulties making up your mind when more than one opportunity presents itself. You will have less trouble, however, if you will remember that all that glitters is not gold, that the enterprise which comes wrapped in the prettiest promises may not be best for you in the long run. Let thorough investigation and the unemotional approach to decisions be your guidelines to making up your mind.

You have a highly fanciful imagination and have probably been warned since childhood not to allow it to get the better of your powers of reason. You have not allowed such warnings to scare you off employing your imagination altogether, however. You use it to enhance the fun to be had at social gatherings, to assuage the pain of loneliness when forced to be alone, and to help you overcome shyness in your efforts to communicate.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Friday, January 28

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—Increased vitality should serve to move you forward both in your career and in your social life. Accept an invitation for evening fun.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21)—Lay your own opinion on the line. This may not be the right time to ask for advancement—but it is the right time to be thinking about it.

ARIES (March 22-April 20)—Launch an important personal campaign today. You should be able to get the support you need, both moral and material, if you go about it subtly.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—You should find yourself in an excellent position today for taking advantage of new opportunities to meet people. Seek out one who can help you.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—Do what you can to sustain the good mood around the home. Take care, however, not to hide unpleasantness from those who need to know.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—The past may get in your way today. You can move forward by a giant step or two if you are careful to put first things first.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—Be sure that others understand how important it is to express their opinions on a matter that's been on the agenda for a long time. Stress honesty.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—Seek an interview with one who knows your field well and would be willing to help you get ahead in it. Reasonable attitudes about on all sides.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—Be willing to yield another the right to speak first. You will do better in the long run if you hear another's arguments before he hears yours.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—You will have to make adjustments if you are to be able to accept what this morning brings. Commit yourself to a program of study.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—Though some of today's demands may seem irrelevant to your ambitions, you will find meeting them ultimately necessary to achievement.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)—Stress cooperation among co-workers. Deal sensibly with any on-the-job stresses and you should be able to get through the day very well.

City Found Clean In Price List Spotcheck

SPRINGFIELD — From the nine cities listed in statistics from the area regarding retailers compliance with price posting requirements only Jacksonville had a perfect record for price posting requirements, according to Jay G. Philpott, district director for Central and Southern Illinois. The figures were compiled last week.

IRS field investigators making spot checks reported they checked 563 retailers and found 478 were complying with the posting requirements and 85, or 15 percent, were in violation.

Included in these figures are spot checks of 563 retailers in Jacksonville and eight other surrounding communities. Of this number 85 were in violation of posting requirements. Agents are checking retailers with gross sales of more than $200,000 annually for compliance with the requirement that they post a list of base prices and signs announcing the availability of base price information.

Recent changes by the Cost of Living Council provide that retailers with annual sales between $100,000 and $200,000 are still subject to price controls but not the price posting or sign requirements. Those with sales less than $100,000 are totally exempt from price controls. This exemption does not apply to service organizations.

In reporting the results of spot checks during the past week, Mr. Philpott pointed out that between January 3 and 17, when all retailers were subject to posting requirements, 1,098 of the 2,076 retailers checked, or 53 percent, were found in violation. Agents are now recontacting all retailers cited as being in violation, telling those with sales less than $200,000 that they are no longer subject to posting requirements, and checking to determine if retailers with sales of $200,000 or more are still in violation.

Towns Involved
The nine cities checked were Champaign, Decatur, East St. Louis, Galesburg, Jacksonville, Mt. Vernon, Peoria, Quincy and Springfield.

Of the 56 retailers visited at Decatur, there were 25 violators; of the 93 called on at Mt. Vernon, there were 25 violators; and in Peoria, 64 calls resulted in finding 16 violators.

Hard on the heels of Jacksonville's perfect standing was East St. Louis, where 91 calls were made with only four violations found; Quincy, 44 calls, and Springfield, 61 calls, both having only three violations.

Police Log At Jerseyville Gets 'Hectic'

JERSEYVILLE — A great variety of loot was taken in four separate thefts over the weekend in Jerseyville. Included were 70 gallons of gasoline, four to five cases of beer, two rabbits and seven bunnies, and some pigeons (valued at $13.50), and a speaker from an automobile.

The gasoline was taken from four sanitation trucks parked at the Whiteway Sanitation Service Garage on Maple avenue.

Roman Beiermann reported to police the beer was stolen from a storage shed the thieves pulling open sliding doors to gain entrance.

Jack Ferris reported to police the rabbits and bunnies and the pigeons were taken from his residence at 209 Vine St. He refused to sign complaints against the two juveniles who took them.

The speaker was stolen from a car owned by Donald Gross of 506 Liberty while it was parked at his place of business, 407 N. State St.

Police found a bread wrapper and a tube of glue at the scene of a gathering of several youths Saturday afternoon after an unidentified caller reported a group of teenagers were in a field near Horn Drive who might have drugs. By the time the police arrived, the group had dispersed.

An 11-year-old girl called police Saturday evening and said she and her 12-year-old sister were home alone and some boys had broken into the house. Investigation revealed five unidentified boys had been at the home, three of them entered the house through the back door but left when the police arrived.

Alton Man 'Objects' To Arrest Charge

JERSEYVILLE — Ollie Price, 63, of 1326 Taylor, Alton, after a wild driving spree during which he ran several cars off the road, was arrested for driving while intoxicated and placed in the city jail. Because of unruly behavior, he was transferred to the Jersey county jail at 7 p.m. But the transfer solved nothing as he threw water over the upstairs portion of the county jail and was returned to the city jail. He also struck sheriff's deputies who attempted to restrain him at the county jail.

Several persons reported the Price car had forced them off Route 267 south of Jerseyville prior to his arrest.

Patrolman Russell Crotchett gave chase after the car in which Price and a woman companion rode, ran a stop sign on State St. Price failed to stop when the red light of the squad car was turned on.

Crotchett pursued the car west on Hickory St. to Liberty and then south on Mulberry. The car finally stopped when it pulled into a driveway on Mulberry.

When Crotchett and Patrolman Richard Blackberry attempted to handcuff Price, he kicked Crotchett three times. Wine and vodka were found in the Price car, police said. Charges include DUI and resisting arrest with county charges stemming from Price's stay in the county jail to be filed later.

A Jerseyville man, Lyle Monroe, told police he had followed the Price car after it passed him on Route 67 south of town going about 100 miles per hour. He saw several cars forced off the road.

Mrs. Lucille Hamlin and her son of 1102 Spruce St. went to the station as did Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tuley of Route 2, Jerseyville, to report that the speeding car had forced their cars off the road.

The sheriff's department said Price fought deputies who tried to subdue him after he had thrown water all over the upper portion of the jail. When four deputies tried to handcuff Price, he struck at least one of them, the sheriff said.

Dreamed-Of Bridge Spanning Bosphorus Nearing Reality

By Niyazi Dalyanci

ISTANBUL, Turkey (UPI)—Turkey will boast the first permanent manmade intercontinental land link when its suspension bridge over the Bosphorus is completed next year.

Two 540-foot steel towers now rising on either side of the waterway which separates Istanbul's Asian and European ports are bringing closer the dream of the booming city's 3 million inhabitants. It is a sort of dream that grew out of an historical fact. In 513 B.C. the Persian emperor Darius moved his armies across the Bosphorus on a "bridge" of rafts.

The giant construction now towering above the Golden Horn and already proudly dubbed "the Euro-Asian Bridge," will cost Turkey $29 million. It is only part of a $150 million project which will include a second, smaller bridge over the Bosphorus and 13 miles of motor roads around the city.

To Solve Problems Turkish authorities expect the bridge to solve most of the urban development problems of Istanbul which suffered from extreme congestion and unbalanced expansion.

Among other advantages, Turkey hopes to increase its tourism revenues and fruit exports and decrease road accidents, according to ministry of public works officials.

The funds necessary for launching the project have been partly raised from abroad and partly provided from the government budget. Six common market members plus Britain and Japan have loaned Turkey $75.9 million.

Desire To Be 'Nice Guy' One Of Life's Big Dangers

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Yes, friends, it is a narrow path of safety that we tread in this world.

We are lucky to make it in one piece from dawn to dusk. The way is beset by vexing booby traps and lurking ambushes. Everything and everybody seems out to get you—if you don't watch out.

But the biggest danger in life to anybody is his desire to please—to be "a nice guy." He wants to say yes when common sense tells him it would be wiser to say no.

Here, for example, are a few typical invitations you ought to duck, because if you accept them you are likely to wind up in arm-pit-deep woes:

"Why don't you leave your umbrella behind? It rained so much yesterday, it couldn't rain today."

"Since your rich aunt is named Arabella, why don't you name your son Arabesque in her honor? Surely your wife won't object to that."

"You reach over and hold the wheel while I bend down and tie my shoelace. It's driving me batty."

"Since the congregation finished $25,000 in the black this year, why don't we build a new church—a really big one?"

"You pick up the check for this round, and if there's time before I have to catch my train, I'll buy the next round."

"Here, I'll give you the first volume of the encyclopedia for nothing. All you have to do is sign up for the other 37 volumes at $4.99 a volume each month. By the time your boy gets out of college you'll have the whole set."

"Do you want me to tell you what kind of insurance portfolio I'd sell myself if I were in your shoes?"

"If I tell you what I think is your worst fault, will you tell me what you think mine is?"

"You don't want to be logical, don't you?"

"I'll provide the food for the party, if you'll grab the tab for the booze."

"Listen, baby, we don't really need all these lights on while we're watching television, do we? How about me turning a few off?"

"They don't look all that tough to me, Jack. I'll hit the little one while you toy with the big one. Okay?"

"These five-button sport jackets will be the rage next fall. How about being the first guy in your block to buy one now?"

"If I tell the boss we both have to have a raise or we'll quit together, will you back me up?"

Animal Musicians To Play At New Opryland U.S.A.

By DALA MCKINSEY
Associated Press Writer

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Barnyard animals will share the stage with the human performers in the new Opryland U.S.A. at the nation's "country music capital," Nashville, Tenn.

When the 369-acre park opens in April, displays will include a harmonica-playing cow, a piano-playing pig and a bell-ringing vulture.

The acts are being trained at Animal Behavior Enterprises Inc. of Hot Springs for use when the Grand Old Opry, central attraction of the park, leaves the downtown Nashville building it has occupied for 32 years and moves to the park east of the city.

Marian Breland, who founded the animal training center with her late husband, Keller Breland, in 1947, says the pig will play a simple tune on the piano. This is a feat that is small in terms of human abilities, but in animals it represents a large investment in time and patience by a trainer.

Tom Mahoney, a trainer, has been working with the vulture. The first step, he said, was to get the vulture accustomed to human company.

Mahoney also has trained the vulture to pull a string. A bell will be tied to the end of that string later.

"A vulture pulling a loop doesn't look like much now," Mrs. Breland said.

That doesn't sound like much—even compared to the tune the pig plays—but, with a vulture, it's a fairly substantial accomplishment, Mahoney said. The training is based on the concept of positive reinforcement. If the animal performs as desired, additional food is provided. Animals are not punished, however, for failing to do well, Mrs. Breland said.

Through this sort of program, the pig has learned to shift his weight so that he produces a melody from a miniature piano. The Opryland animals will be transported by truck to Nashville. Mrs. Breland said staff members will stay in Nashville to train the persons who will work with the animals there to be sure proper care is given the trained animals.

During summer months, the center sends individual animal displays to points around the country, but only in the care of trained personnel.

The Nashville display will be the center's first music-related animal display.

Film Depicts Life Of U.S. Youth Jailed In Spain For Drug Offenses

By DAVID C. JONES
MADRID (UPI)—In an unprecedented move, Spanish authorities recently gave an American movie crew almost total liberty to film a documentary on American youths serving long prison sentences here for drug offenses.

As a result, American filmmaker Robert Francis Logan has just completed shooting footage for an hour-long feature that tells a lot about the motivation and fate of some youngsters who took the world's busiest hashish trail, from Morocco to Spain, and ended up behind Spanish prison walls.

Four Youths Selected
From the more than two dozen young Americans jailed for drug offenses, Logan selected four for in-depth interviews.

"With the support of the U.S. Embassy, we obtained the full cooperation of Spanish prison officials, police and customs authorities," the 30-year-old Logan said. "They even arranged for us to watch a 'bust' in the harbor of Algeciras."

Logan's movie, titled "Holding," is the first shot behind Spanish prison walls. It was completed on Christmas Eve when Logan and three other young American movie-makers filmed the scene that ends the documentary—a tearful Christmas party at Santander Prison.

Prison Life Not Bad
One fact emerging from the interviews is that Spanish prison life is not as bad as the youths had expected. Their treatment has been generally good, Logan said.

"The Americans mainly gripped about the food and insufficient heating in winter," he added. "But they accept their fate as bad luck. One of the interviewed told us with a grin: 'We think of ourselves as prisoners of war shot down over Spain.'"

One of the prisoners, Mitch L. Walman, 28, of Los Angeles, was allowed to develop a thriving little business selling beer at one peseta (1.5 cents) a bottle profit to fellow prisoners. Others cultivate their own vegetables in the prison yard, with guards making sure that none of the plots is used to grow marijuana.

In addition to Walman, who was sentenced to seven years and one day in jail for drug trafficking, the interviewees included John Michael Harris, 22, a Georgian who has been living abroad in recent years; Janet Gundersen, 24, a school-teacher from New York City, and Howard Fowler, a youth about whom the moviemakers and the U.S. Embassy were unable to provide exact data.

The latter three were all found guilty of drug trafficking—a cover-all charge that Spain applies to anyone found in possession of a quantity of drugs in excess of what the person in question might need for the gratification of immediate personal needs—and sentenced to the minimum penalty of six years and one day in jail.

Harris was picked up with three companions in Algeciras Harbor as they landed from Morocco with 27 pounds of hashish hidden in their luggage. Miss Gundersen was arrested in the hippie haven of Ibiza following the arrest of her boyfriend in Madrid. A search of her dwelling turned up a small quantity of hashish.

Fowler was picked up with a girl friend in Algeciras. In addition to the jail sentence, customs authorities fined him 1,428 million pesetas ($21,000) for having tried to smuggle 52 pounds of cannabis into Spain. "At first we thought these were just kids carrying some hash for their own enjoyment," said cameraman Bob Roy, 31, of Birmingham, Ala., who worked with Logan on the movie.

"But then it developed that while they used most of the stuff themselves, they had definitely smuggled some into Spain with the idea of selling it. Taking it to other countries for sale, they could make some extra cash."

Got Idea While Surfing
Logan said he got the idea for the documentary while on a surfing vacation in southern France. He had heard about the jailing of young Americans who had been caught following the hashish trail from Morocco, a land of cheap and plentiful drugs, to Spain, a land of hippie havens and carefree beach life.

Logan and producer-sound man Michael McConnell, 24, of San Francisco, went to Spain where they joined forces with two Madrid-based Americans, Royal and second cameraman Leven Jester, 24. The four decided to shoot the movie on a 10-week production schedule and a budget of $15,000, with the foursome chipping in on the costs.

"We thought the film would be of topical interest—and that U.S. authorities would approve of the idea as a warning to young traffickers," Jester said. The crew filmed the Moroccan cannabis fields and the traffic route from Marrakech and Tangiers across the Strait of Gibraltar to southern Spain, then set about recording the interviews.

Spaniards Agree
Logan said the Spaniards quickly agreed to grant them full liberty in filming inside Santander and Alcala prisons, on conditions that activities were restricted to Americans, and Spanish inmates would be left alone.

"The interviewees told us prison authorities took no steps to conceal conditions," Royal said. "But the prisoners were ordered to tidy up their cells."

Logan said filming was "like walking on eggs" in the beginning, and that the prisoners "would have looked like Hill-ton" if the Spaniards had had their way. But the filmmakers insisted on complete liberty, and the Spaniards gave in.

Logan, whose documentary "Czechoslovakia 1968" on the Soviet invasion of Prague was widely distributed by the U.S. Information Service, is presently editing the more than 15,000 feet of film and hopes to sell it either to U.S. television or a movie distributor. He said the French national TV network has also shown interest in the documentary.

"With so much written about the risks traffickers run in Spain and other countries it is hard to see how young people can be unaware of the penalties they face," Royal said.

"Most of them have an adventurous spirit and think they will be the lucky ones to get away. They recognize what they are doing is unlawful, but do not think of themselves as criminals."

Turn out onto lightly floured smooth surface; cover and let rest 10 minutes. Then knead dough until smooth and elastic—about 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm draft-free place until doubled in bulk—about 50 minutes. Punch down dough. Divide in half; shape each half into loaf. Place each loaf in a greased 8½ by 4½ by 2½ inch loaf pan. Cover; let rise again until doubled in bulk—about 50 minutes. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until loaves sound hollow when tapped with knuckles—about 35 minutes. Turn out of pans onto wire rack; turn right side up; cool. Makes 2 loaves.

Puget Sound Superferries Carry 10 Million Passengers Each Year

By RICHARD ZAHLER
Associated Press Writer
SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The rush begins as a trickle: a handful of passengers crosses the small gangplank, a covey of coughing motorcycles jerk over the loading ramp.

But within minutes the trickles becomes a flood of hundreds of people; the motorcycles are followed by wave upon wave of cars and trucks thumping onto the metal deck of the Elwha, a giant Puget Sound ferry.

It is 7 a.m., the start of another day for Capt. Joe Brazeau, skipper of the Elwha; for Joseph Holland, the ferry's chief engineer; for galley workers busy brewing gallons of coffee, and for 1,500 to 2,000 commuters who board the boat in morning darkness for a leisurely eight-mile trip to jobs in Seattle. The trip from Bainbridge Island, loading point for a half dozen bedroom communities across the water west of Seattle, will take half-an-hour. The commuters will use the time in a variety of ways.

Some, like H. W. Albrecht, will find a bench or table where they can spread out notebooks and get started with the day's paperwork. Some will nap or read the morning paper, others will renew yesterday's chess matches or bridge games. Many will head for the coffee shop and a few of them, like Ward Travis, will grumble that they wish the state would build a bridge so they could drive to work.

But most will sit back, relax and be glad they can get to work with comfort and ease. Freeway and hail commuters, traveling in what is billed the largest ferry of its class in the world.

The Elwha and her three sister ships are fondly called "superferries," queens of the 19-vessel fleet whose ships ply the cold waters of Puget Sound daily over seven routes, carrying 10 million passengers and logging 750,000 miles a year, according to officials.

The four superferries, built in 1967 to handle the system's burgeoning commuter traffic, are the newest additions to "Washington's Navy," a fleet owned and operated by the state since 1951.

Each of the big ferries is longer than a football field and as tall as a six-story building. Two passenger decks and two vehicle decks are sandwiched between engine rooms and wheelhouses, giving each ferry a capacity of 2,500 passengers and 160 cars. They are the largest, double-ended, open-ended ferries in the world designed for rapid passenger and vehicle turnover, says Capt. A. F. "Spike" Eikum, manager of the system.

The trim, green and white state ferries have become favorites of tourists, photographers and late-night romantics, but it is their unique suitability to a region of complex geography that is hailed as their best feature.

The waters and surrounding land of Puget Sound constitute a maze of islands, peninsulas, straits and bays that defy conventional highway engineering. Residents of Bainbridge Island live within a dozen miles of Seattle as the crow flies but are more than 60 miles away by the shortest highway driving distance. Residents of the Kitsap and Olympic peninsulas are in similar straits. Some argue the state could save money by building cross-Sound bridges which, though expensive at first, ultimately would mean elimination of the ferries' large maintenance and operating costs.

Eikum says, however, that bridges between the largest population areas might never be feasible because of the depth of the Sound west of Seattle and because of heavy commercial shipping traffic.

Study Deals With Australia's Heavy Drinking

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI)—Half the men and a third of the women in Australia are "heavy drinkers" according to a three-year study of alcoholism made for the National Health and Medical Research Council.

The study, conducted by sociologist Prof. Sol Ence, was reported along with another by the Victorian Employers' Association that said the "best cure for a drunk" was the threat of being fired.

Ence's study dealt in detail with heavy drinking among women. He said his research brought him to the conclusion that heavy drinking by Australian women was closely related to their heavy use of prescription drugs—sleeping pills and sedatives. He also found that the wealthier women become, the more they drink.

"And," said Ence, "there is a definite relationship between brandy and boredom, particularly among suburbanite women. They feel isolated as their children go off to school and to work, and their husbands spend more and more time at work."

"But our studies have only scratched the surface of women's drinking behavior—it's very complex." The Ence study reported that Australia's serious alcoholic problem was aggravated by the fact that Australians can't recognize alcoholics "when they see and live with them."

Ence's definition of "heavy drinkers" were those who drank more than four glasses at a sitting, more than two or three times a week.

The Employers' Federation said most alcoholics cling tenaciously to their jobs because it's their last great bulwark against admitting that they are drunks.

"Constructive coercion, teamed with clinical aid," said the Federation report, "has cured from 60 to 80 per cent, compared to 30 or 40 per cent by using clinical help only."

The study estimated that absenteeism in the United States among alcoholic employees cost companies an estimated $4 billion annually compared to $1 billion eight years ago.

"This loss," said the VEF report, "was twice the cost of all time lost due to strikes and labor unrest in the same period of 1971."

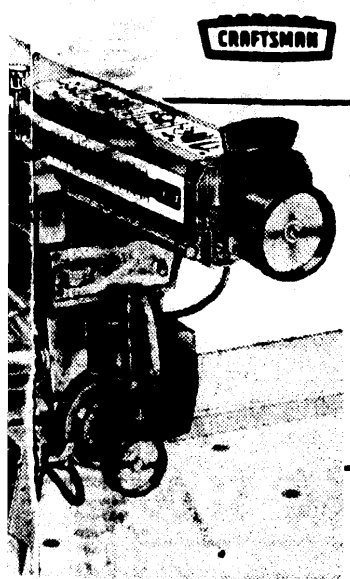

The Ence survey concluded that Americans drink often than Australians, but are more moderate in their drinking. And that there are large groups in the United States who abstain because of moral attitudes.

"There is virtually no abstinence in Australia to support its Victorian stance," the professor said, "nor is there any wide divergence between city and country drinking as there is in America."

Commonwealth statistics show that Australians consume an average of 27.1 imperial gallons (five quarts U.S.) of beer, two gallons of wine and half a gallon of spirits (gin, vodka, rum or whisky) per person annually. They are the third greatest nation of beer drinkers in the world behind the West Germans and the Czechs.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Tomatoes Are A Valuable Food

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb—I just love eating tomatoes with sugar and my friend insists on eating them with salt and pepper. She says that way they don't harm you.

We are in our 60s. She also salts her food at the table and says salt is good for you. I always thought too much salt would cause hardening of the arteries. Am I right?

Dear Reader—The tomatoes won't harm you even if you eat them without anything. They are an excellent source of vitamins A and C. It is hard to imagine that this valuable food was once considered a poison and was included with plants of the deadly nightshade family. Adding sugar merely adds calories. If you need to watch your calories, perhaps you should use something else for seasoning.

Salt is a natural substance in the body. When the body is normal and functions properly, any excess salt you use, within reason, is eliminated through the kidneys. There is no evidence that salt in the amounts used for eating can or does cause hardening of the arteries in man.

Salt can be harmful for people who retain excess fluid, such as in heart failure or liver disease. It should also be limited in people who have high blood pressure. With the exception of people with these medical problems, salt can be used. Incidentally there is a reasonable amount of salt naturally occurring in many foods, including meat, milk and vegetables.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Would you comment on this problem? A woman has pain in her breast and irregular periods. She tells the doctor this and when she is examined, he puts the stethoscope to her back and chest without even removing her bra and says it is probably muscle spasm and dismisses her.

Do you think doctors are too busy to really take care of a patient? Do you think she should consult another doctor? This woman is hesitant to see another doctor for fear of making a fool of herself.

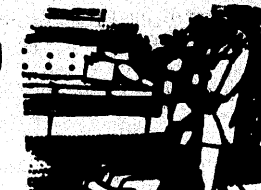

Dear Reader—Doctors are people. They make mistakes or can be preoccupied and not do something obvious that they should do. I think if a person is unhappy with his doctor, he should tell him so and why. If the situation doesn't resolve itself, then go to a new doctor. A doctor should examine a patient for his main difficulty. That means if the problem is pain in the breast, the breast should be examined. If he doesn't do it, ask him why not.

Please send your questions and comments to Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Lamb cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Afghani? Baht? Quetzal? They All Mean Same-Money

NEW YORK (AP) — In Afghanistan it's an afghani. In Thailand a baht. In Panama a balboa. And in Guatemala a quetzal.

No matter what the country or what it's called it all adds up to the same thing: money. It used to be that if a man could count his change and figure his income tax he knew enough about money to leave the rest to accountants or the government.

Things have changed, however, and knowing about dollars and cents apparently isn't enough. The flood of words and information about money has grown bewildering.

Today a person is expected to understand "reserve currency" and "liquidity." He is asked to figure out "invisible trade" and "drawing rights" and to interpret such concepts as "dollar gap" and "devaluation." Many of these terms actually have been in the dictionary for years. According to Dr. H. Bosley Woolf of G. & C. Merriam Co. some of the phrases date from the early 1930s when the dollar was devalued and the world faced monetary crisis.

What are some of those phrases and what are their definitions? A few of the more prominent are spelled out below. The definitions are taken from Webster's Third New International Dictionary. The only new word is "stagflation," but the rest have become standard phrases.

Inflation: An increase in the volume of money and credit relative to available goods resulting in a substantial and continuing rise in the general price level.

Deflation: A contraction in the volume of available money or credit resulting in a decline of the general price level.

Gross national product (GNP): The total value of the goods and services produced in a nation during a specific period (as a year) and also comprising the total of expenditures by consumers and government plus gross private investment.

Stagflation: Inflation characterized by stagnant consumer demand and severe wage-price inflation.

Liquidity: The quality or state of possessing liquid assets; that is cash or capable of being readily converted into cash.

Reserve currency: The liquid resources (as gold and foreign exchanges) of a nation for meeting international payments.

Balance of payments: A summary of the international transactions of a country or region over a period of time including commodity and service transactions, capital transactions, and gold movements.

Jacksonville Journal, Jacksonville, Ill., Jan. 27, 1972 11

Balance of trade: The difference in value over a period of time between imports and exports of commodities or formerly of commodities and such transactions as services and remittances.

Devaluation: An official reduction in the exchange value of a currency by a lowering of its gold equivalency.

Eurodollar: A U.S. dollar held outside the U.S. and especially in Europe.

Drawing rights: A grant of credit from one nation to another that is a condition for the granting of funds or credit to the first nation from a third and is intended to stimulate and facilitate international trade. SDRs (special drawing rights): a proposed international means of exchange for use by governments in settling their international indebtedness.

Conversion: The exchange of outstanding currency for a new monetary unit as part of the reconstruction of a currency system.

Lawyer Argues For TV In Nation's Courtrooms

By GUY A. GOODINE
MUSKOGEE, Okla. (UPI)—Muskogee attorney Otis H. Eversole Jr. thinks the nation's judiciary and legal profession is making a big mistake in forbidding the televising of court cases.

This places them, he says, in the dark ages.

As Eversole sees it the televising of court cases would in net effect speed the legal process. He doesn't believe TV cameras would have the distracting effect that opponents of the idea claim.

His proposal is to install stationary, wide-angle lens television cameras in courtrooms. Video tapes could be used in appeals, or desired portions could be available for television news. Copies also could be produced for use in law schools.

Eversole feels he has made some progress against the anti-TV forces by winning support for his plan among attorneys in Muskogee. He's now going to see what he can do with the Oklahoma Supreme Court and the state legislature.

Primarily, Eversole says, he is concerned with current lengthy delays in appeal proceedings, caused by the time involved in preparing written transcripts.

"Delays Cause Backlog

"It can take anywhere from four months upward to obtain a copy of the transcript for use in filing an appeal brief," Eversole said. "The delays have created an intolerable backlog of cases in the appellate courts that can be expensive both to defendants in civil or criminal cases, and to society in criminal cases."

On the criminal side of the docket, Eversole thinks speedier appeals made possible by instantly replayable video tapes, would lessen the number of repeat offenses by criminals while they are free on bond.

"The law requires that a defendant in a criminal action be released on bond if the offense is bondable," Eversole said. "Freeing a felon, once convicted, pending his appeal, is somewhat like giving him a license to steal and plunder—possibly murder—during his extended freedom. All because of the time it takes to extend to every individual those rights guaranteed under the constitution."

In his profession, Eversole appears to be one of a small company. The American Bar Association, in canon 35 of its Code of Judicial Ethics, took its first formal stand against cameras in the courtroom in 1937. The canon was updated in 1952 and again in 1963, maintaining the strictures against television.

Review This Year

Many of the ABA's canons are up for review this year, but canon 35 is not one of them. In essence the position of the bar association is it can find "no evidence that a fair trial can be better served by permitting photography (including TV) in courtrooms."

Eversole insists this is

New Whirling Dervishes Have Religious Roots

By RODNEY PRIDER
Associated Press Writer
KONYA, Turkey (AP)—Erol Kucukbakirci is a well-spoken and intelligent young man of 19. He is a student and a member of Turkey's national bicycling team.

But for two weeks every year, Erol forgets his bicycling and his studies, puts on a white robe and a conical felt hat a foot high and turns round and round in a trance to the tune of a hypnotic flute. He is one of Turkey's new whirling dervishes.

The whirling dervishes used to have an important place in Turkey's religious life. They were followers of Jelaluddin Mevlana Rumi, a 13th century Muslim mystic who died here and whose tomb still makes Konya a pilgrimage center for devout Turks. Mevlana taught total surrender to God through asceticism and meditation.

His followers lived in convents, or tekkes, from childhood on, practicing as one form of religious exercise the whirling dance which gave them their name. In 1925 the reform government of Kemal Ataturk abolished the dervishes and turned the tekkes into museums.

"feels nothing. There is just music and God."

The absence of feeling is one of Mevlana's desired objects. The music—played on a doleful flute—is a representation of the soul's agony when it is separated from God. The dance is an attempt to ease the agony by mute unthinking participation in the action of the universe.

4-H Club News Notes

The Peppy Pepper's 4-H Club's January meeting began with the pledge to the flag. Secretary Diane Cole gave the minutes and Donna Mills gave the treasurer's report.

President Teresa Gish suggested a thank you note be sent to the Central Christian church for the use of the basement for the club's Christmas party. Leader Mrs. Wallace presented a County Recognition Certificate to the club. Mary Spradlin gave the Federation report and a report on the radio program. Wina Hewitt reported on winter camp. Donna Mills gave the report on the Christmas basket and read a thank you note from Major McNichol.

Under new business Teresa Gish called for a vote on participating in the Muscular Distrophy drive; it was agreed upon. She suggested entering a poster contest. All members who wanted could make a poster and the best three from the club would be entered in the contest.

Roller skating lessons and automobile training will be offered on a county level. Mary Spradlin introduced her guest, Kim Lindsey. In the People-to-People project, it was decided to have someone speak about some German topic. Teresa announced a short course on Citizenship. This involves a trip to Washington, D.C. at a cost of $180.

There are, however, five or six old men who take part in the annual ceremony, and these spent their childhood in tekkes, where they lived until 1925.

The "Sultan" or "Sheikh Efendi" of the new order is Selman Tuzun. He entered a tekke in 1909 at the age of 4 and between 1925 and 1954 was a teacher of religious studies. In 1954 he helped reorganize the dervishes.

The Sultan agrees that the present "Dervish Festival" in Konya, which attracts foreign as well as Turkish tourists, does not necessarily provide the right atmosphere for what was intended as a mystic reunion with God. The dancing is held on a basketball court before a paying audience as anxious to snap up "Mevlana dolls" and "Mevlana Turkish delight" as to see the dancing.

But he says the "sema"—a word which means "heaven"—and is applied to the whirling, which symbolizes the planets circling the sun—"means something different to everyone. You see it in one way, we see it in another. You don't necessarily feel what they feel."

One dancer found it hard to explain what he felt. Ahmet Birekul, a theological student, is 20 and has been taking part in the sema since he was 14. When he dances, he said, he

1972 Coin Market—Definitely Looking Up

MONEY CLIPS

by Mort Reed

With an eye on the international monetary situation, the nation's leading coin experts and dealers are forecasting a year of mixed blessings for numismatics in 1972. All of them agree, however, that the return to Leisure-Living activities they were forced to abandon during much of 1971. This trend will continue upward through 1972.

The January, 1972, "Crystal Ball" edition of Numismatic Scrapbook magazine is the 20th annual issue devoted to predictions from outstanding professional numismatists and other hobby leaders on just what the situation with sufficient vigor; and citizens in, as well as out of the coin collecting hobby are calling upon their representatives to speed up adoption of the "Hobby Protection Act," (H.R. 10600) introduced by Rep. Seymour Halpern, D-N.Y.

A quick look at some of the predictions and ideas submitted to the "Crystal Ball" and this writer's reaction which is based on the trends reflected in this column's reader mail:

Eisenhower proof and unrecalled 1971 dollars will sell far below their original issue price in 1972, a wholly unqualified expression that should never have been included among the predictions.

True, the proof and unrecalled Eisenhower dollars were overpriced when compared with similar issues in other countries. But don't be taken in by vicious rumors designed only to talk you out of your coins.

Numismatic Scrapbook magazine editor, Russell Rulau, pointed out that a limited number of the January Crystal Ball issues are still available to readers of this column who send their names, addresses and 60 cents to Numismatic Scrapbook, P.O. Box 150, Sidney, Ohio 45365.

Fashion starts at the top for the girl on the go. Susan Clark, former British model now appearing in the film, "The Skin Game," has chosen this wardrobe of hats to give her a new look. For a sleek tailored look there is the nostalgic '30s cloche (top left) in crushable felt by Betmar. For after dark she chose a side draped turban of black jersey (top right) with flowing drape and open crown by Frank Olive. She likes the young fashion fun in the popular knitted pulldown cap (lower left) set off with a matching scarf. Her pull-over "utility" hat in dyed rabbit (lower right) is a great ally for hiding hair that needs a "do." These last two designs by Merrymakers.

Brawl Victims

Two Ohio State Players Injured

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Luke Witte and Mark Minor, two Ohio state basketball regulars involved in the game-ending brawl at Minnesota Tuesday night, may not play at Michigan Saturday in another important Big Ten contest.

Witte, 7-foot junior center, and Minor, 6-5 senior forward, were hurt in the melee in the final minutes at Minneapolis.

The game between the Big Ten co-leaders was halted with 36 seconds to play and officials declared Ohio State a 50-44 victor.

"It's up to the doctors," said Ohio State Coach Fred Taylor Wednesday when the battered Buckeyes arrived home.

The Ohio State mentor was referring to the availability of Witte and Minor for the rematch with the Wolverines.

Cardinals Scheduled Here Today

Local baseball fans will have an opportunity to meet and talk with St. Louis Cardinal Manager Red Schoendienst, two players and other front office personnel of the Cardinals, in Jacksonville this afternoon.

The St. Louis Cardinal Caravan will be at the Holiday Inn in Jacksonville at 3 p.m., for approximately an hour, for a coffee break between stops on the Caravan tour. The public is invited to attend and confer with those on the Caravan stop. The Caravan will be involved in a luncheon in Springfield at noon and a dinner stop in Taylorville in the evening. Local and area news media will also be present at the session.

Among those scheduled to stop here are Schoendienst, players Dal Maxville and Joe Hagos, Jim Bayens, Paul Fawks and Joe Cunningham from the Cardinal front office and former player turned announcer Mike Shannon.

MacMURRAY COLLEGE senior and team captain Kent Youngren was named Outstanding Wrestler in last weekend's eight-team MacMurray Invitational Tournament. It was the third straight year that Youngren has received the tournament's top award. His championship victory in the 150-pound division marked his fourth individual title in the meet, and made him the winningest wrestler in MacMurray history. Youngren currently holds a 15-2 season record and an 82-15 career mark. He is a 1968 graduate of Lincolnway High School. MacMurray Coach Pete George is shown presenting the award.

Patterson Wants To Keep Fighting

By MILTON RICHMAN

UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Floyd Patterson has a little problem. It's the same one millions of others all over the world also are having.

Floyd Patterson is trying desperately to find himself. Still. Yet. For the 20th straight year.

Toward that end he begins his 20th season as a professional fighter on Feb. 11 when he goes against Argentina's bulky Oscar Bonavena at Madison Square Garden in a 10-rounder he hopes will lead him to a heavyweight title shot with smokin' Joe Frazier.

There was a time when death and taxes were considered the only two sure things. But it turns out now there is a third sure thing by the name of Floyd Patterson.

For sure, 10 years from now, Floyd Patterson will be fighting somebody someplace and if he isn't fighting somebody he'll certainly be thinking about doing it.

Why? "Simply because I like fighting," said Patterson Tuesday at a get-together the Garden held for him and the always happy, hearty Bonavena. "I've told my wife Janet, if it was up to me I'd fight until 50 or 60, as long as I was holding my own ground. I see no reason to quit regardless of what anyone says."

Patterson, only man to hold the heavyweight title on two different occasions, now wants to try for three. He was 37 three weeks ago and most people feel he should've quit long ago but they don't bother telling him anymore because they know it's a waste of time. "I used to resent them telling me that but then I felt otherwise," he says. "Many of them were my friends and they didn't want me to get hurt. That's concern. I appreciate that."

Patterson's wife, Janet, doesn't say anything to him about quitting. "She never says anything but I know she waits for the day I retire so she can relax," says the curiously introverted former champ who has won 54 of his 62 professional fights. "She worries about me so much. She can't sleep every time I take a fight. I promised her I'd quit if I got a chance to fight for the title again."

Floyd Patterson is a paradox. On one hand he claims all he wants is another shot at the title. On the other hand he was offered a shot at Frazier's crown a few months ago, the same shot Terry Daniels had in New Orleans 11 days ago, and guess what he did? That's right, he turned it down.

"I wasn't ready then," he says simply.

Now Patterson figures he's ready. They asked him why he chose to fight Bonavena, and Patterson said all the others have eliminated themselves. "The only newcomer," he explained, "is George Foreman. Half says he has it; half say he hasn't. If I were to fight him and beat him everybody would say he didn't have it."

Floyd Patterson probably is the gentlest individual ever to wear the heavyweight crown. He speaks barely above a whisper, his manners are like those of few other fighters and he actually has to build himself up "to be mean or vicious."

"The last time I really felt like destroying someone goes back 12 years ago," he said. "It was Ingemar Johansson. I don't like that feeling I had. Should I ever feel that way again, I'll retire."

Johansson had taken the title from Patterson via a third-round kayo in their first fight the year before and then belittled Floyd's ability before the second bout. In their second meeting, Patterson knocked out Johansson in the fifth and it took some time before the Swede was revived in the ring.

"Do you remember that?" someone asked Patterson. "I certainly do," he said. "I've never been so happy to see someone get up. Usually it's vice versa."

Oscar Bonavena fights because of the money. He needs it, he says, and he likes it.

Floyd Patterson doesn't need the money. He says he's "comfortable."

He also says the thing he wants most in life is not fame, adulation or money but "peace of mind."

I asked Floyd Patterson, who previously had said he'd like to keep fighting until he was 50 or 60, when does he think he'll ever achieve that peace of mind?

"I don't know," he said. "I just want to keep fighting until I can't fight anymore."

He said all the others have eliminated themselves.

Duke Plans Further Look At Cage Brawl

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Wayne Duke, Big Ten commissioner, said Wednesday that further interviews and study of films will be made before any action is taken in regard to the basketball brawl that ended the Ohio State game at Minnesota Tuesday night.

Ohio State was credited with a 50-44 victory as the game was stopped with 36 seconds to play when a melee among players broke out.

Three Ohio State players were taken to a hospital and two of them remained overnight for observation. None was seriously injured.

Athletic Directors Ed Weaver of Ohio State and Paul Giel of Minnesota, Herbert Rohrig, supervisor of Big Ten officials, and Duke have reviewed official game films.

"They were not conclusive to the extent we could make a total assessment of the situation," said Duke. "In addition, Giel, Rohrig and I viewed other films and consulted with several of the principals involved."

New film aired by WCCO-TV in Minneapolis, showed Turner fouled Witte when he took a jump shot just prior to the melee.

Witte was knocked down and Turner was then ejected. The film shows Taylor extending his hand to Witte to help him up. Witte took the clasp and as he was being pulled up, Taylor raised his knee into Witte's groin, the film showed, and Witte fell.

The TV film then shows bedlam before it comes back and shows Behagen stepping on Witte's head as the Ohio State player was on the floor.

WCCO Sports Director Hal Scott said Duke and Giel asked for the film for their meeting Wednesday. Scott said the film did not, or was unable to show, Witte spitting at Taylor, as he said happened.

Two Ohio State players, Luke Witte and Mark Wagar, who had suffered facial lacerations, were released from University hospitals after being held over night for observation.

Another Buckeye player, Mark Minor, was treated at the hospital for lacerations Tuesday night and released.

Ohio State was leading 50-44 with 36 seconds to play when the brawl began.

Minnesota forward Clyde Turner fouled Witte as the Buckeye tried to shoot. It was ruled a flagrant foul and Turner was ejected.

Corky Taylor, Minnesota forward, said he "tried to pick Witte off the floor after he had gone down following the foul. As I pulled him up, Witte spat at me."

Witnesses generally agreed that at that point, Taylor kneed Witte in the groin. Players from both benches streamed onto the floor, along with spectators, and a series of fights broke out.

Fred Taylor claimed that the Gophers' Ron Behagen, who had fouled out earlier, stomped on Witte's neck. Other Gopher players said Behagen came to Corky Taylor's aid when other Ohio State players got involved.

Behagen and Taylor were called into Wednesday's discussions before the commissioner, as was Herman Rohrig, head of Big Ten officials who was in the stands for the game between the two conference powers.

The 16th-ranked Gophers now have a 4-1 record, while Ohio State, ranked sixth nationally, now lead the Big Ten with a 4-1 record.

Taylor had said he was going to ask Duke to order the Gophers to cease their pregame tactics, resembling a Globetrotters type of warmup.

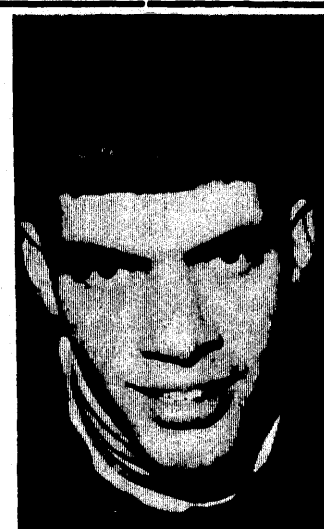

It consists of one player in center court performing bouncing, twirling tricks with a basketball while other players go through practice shots. Meanwhile, the University Band plays "Sweet Georgia Brown," and fans get pepped up by the show. A capacity 17,775 were on hand at Williams Arena for the game Tuesday night.

Said Taylor of the warmup: "If it's that important to their well-being, why don't they do it on the road? Think about that for a minute."

After Northwestern lost to the Gophers 84-60 Jan. 15, Wildcat Coach Brad Snyder complained his players had been intimidated by the warmup. "We were scared to death," he moaned. "My kids never took their eyes off that warmup drill."

Gopher Coach Bill Musselman admitted, "We did intimidate them, no doubt about it."

Colonels Winning But Losing Money

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky Colonels win basketball games. But they are losing dollars, plenty of them, their owners say.

The five owners of the American Basketball Association team believe a merger between the ABA and National Basketball Association is imperative.

"If Congress votes down the merger," said Colonels' Board Chairman Wendell Cherry, "you're going to see a tremendous flight of capital out of basketball, and it won't stop short of Kentucky."

He said, "We'd have to quit, that's all. We'd have to throw in the towel."

If the Colonels' projected loss for this fiscal year—$402,837—is correct, Cherry and the four other owners will be $1,771,649 in the red since they purchased the ABA team in October 1969.

One reason for the deficit is the bidding war between the two leagues for college basketball players. This bothers Cherry but not as much as the ABA league assessment.

He said it came to $78.11 in fiscal 1970, was $128,297 during the past fiscal year, and probably will be $147,300 this year.

"This has been a tremendous expense," he said. "We pick up one-eleventh of the bill and it has been getting higher each year, primarily because of attorneys' fees. A lot of time and money has been spent on working out this merger at the league level."

Should the merger go through, he continued, "the league office can operate much more efficiently. Costs would generally be lower and would be divided among more teams."

When Cherry testified before the Senate subcommittee studying the consolidation, its chairman charged that club owners enjoy losing money because of the tax advantages involved.

Cherry calls this "absurd. I've said it before: there's no future in tax write-offs."

He explained that under the corporate setup for the Colonels, the largest possible write-off for one of the five owners would be 70 per cent, "provided the individual has other income to offset it (the loss)."

The Colonels are averaging about 9,300 spectators per game at home. This figure, which is sixth best among the 28 pro teams, includes complimentary tickets.

Cherry said he has "no axe to grind with the fans. If we should have to call it quits, it won't be their fault."

The fact is, he continued, "these people (the owners) aren't going to put their capital into something that has no hope whatsoever of being rewarded. That's true in any area of business, and basketball is no exception."

Cherry is optimistic that the proposed merger will be approved but doubts that action is likely before the upcoming draft of college players.

And that means, he said, "that a lot of kids will be getting enough money to make sure they never have to do a full day's work again."

Mike Siani of Villanova caught 49 passes last season and 14 of them were good for touchdowns.

Penn Fifth To Capture 1,000 Wins

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —

The University of Pennsylvania became the fifth major college to win 1,000 basketball games Wednesday night as the ninth-ranked Quakers whipped LaSalle 80-66.

Penn, now 11-2, joined Kentucky, Kansas, Oregon State and St. John's of New York in the 1,000-victory club.

The Quakers, defending city champions, made their record 2-1 in Big Five play, which includes Temple, St. Joseph's and Villanova, in addition to Penn and LaSalle.

Penn zipped to a 13-4 lead, built its lead to 27-1 before LaSalle cut into the margin with a full court press.

With LaSalle containing 6-8 Bob Morse in a box-and-one defense, the other Quakers started hitting from outside. Ten minutes into the second half, Penn's Phil Hankinson, Craig Littlepage, Al Cotler and Corky Calhoun had broken it loose to 51-7.

Hankinson and Morse each scored 18 for the winners while Calhoun added 16.

QUINCY WINS 76-68

QUINCY, Ill. (AP)—Quincy rallied from a 32-29 halftime deficit Wednesday night to defeat Northeast Missouri in basketball 76-68.

Dave Rothery, who totaled 17 points, and Keith Schuessler, 16, led a Quincy spurt into a 54-43 lead in the first 12 minutes of the last half.

Lou Gregory was high for the losers with 13 points and Jim Blaydes added 10.

CINCINNATI: Greg Cook, the onetime glamor boy quarterback of the Bengals, Wednesday said he was retiring from professional football. Plagued with an arm injury the last two seasons, and having undergone several operations to correct the malfunction, Cook says he will not try another comeback as he did last season when he failed to make the team. Coach Paul Brown expressed disappointment in the announcement. (UPI Telephoto)

Greg Cook Retires

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Greg Cook, ailing 25-year-old Cincinnati Bengal quarterback, announced his retirement today from professional football.

Cook told the Dayton Daily News in an exclusive interview that he is giving up his 28-month fight to return to pro football. A shoulder injury led to two operations and forced him to miss two full seasons.

He said he has no plans to join the Bengals when training camp opens.

"I may try to lob a few (passes) between now and then, just to see if there's some kind of medical miracle," Cook said. "But I don't expect one. As far as I'm concerned, this is it. It's all over."

A Bengals spokesman told The Associated Press that Cook had "indicated" shortly after the first of the year that he would quit but that he never made a definite statement.

Cook was not available for further comment.

Bradley Buries North Michigan By 104-56 Count

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Bradley used its entire squad of 13 players and exploded for 67 points in the final half Wednesday night to romp to a 104-56 basketball victory over Northern Michigan.

Bradley, boosting its record to 11-6, was ahead 37-26 at intermission then raced out of sight 54-32 in the first six minutes of the finale.

Seymour Reed topped the Braves with 27 points while Rich Schultz added 17 and Sam Simmons 16. Northern, 9-5, was headed by George Barber with 15 and Jim Kroll 12.

Wesleyan Beats North Central

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — Illinois Wesleyan retained its lead in the College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin Wednesday night by scoring a 93-76 victory over North Central.

Dean Gravlin scored 27 points to lead the Titans to their eighth victory in nine conference games. North Central fell to 1-4 in the conference.

Steve Hoeft scored 26 points for the losers.

Illinois Wesleyan is now 14-4 overall while North Park is 6-8.

Lions & Karras Come To Terms; $80,000 Paycheck

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions have settled the contract of former All-Pro tackle Alex Karras, giving the footballer-turned-television personality an $80,000 lump-sum payment.

A Lions spokesman said the $80,000 settlement covered Karras' $35,000 salary for each of the last two years of his contract plus $10,000 in pension benefits which he would have earned had he played out the agreement.

Reed Says He May Never Play Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Willis Reed, the 6-foot-10 center who led the New York Knicks to the National Basketball Association championship two years ago, is having so much trouble with an ailing left leg that he painfully speculates "I might never be back."

Reed was expected to return to work out with the Knicks Wednesday but a meeting with team doctor Andrew Patterson canceled that appointment. It was decided his left knee would not stand up to the pounding it would be required to take.

Reed, the Knicks' answer to superstar centers such as Kareem Abdul Jabbar and Wilt Chamberlain, has not played in 35 games dating back to Nov. 11. And while he was optimistic until now, the tone of his comments has changed.

"The knee hasn't responded to allow me to do the things I have to do to play basketball—running, jumping," Reed explained. "I haven't done a good job of just walking around. We're going to take a few days to think about what to do. Maybe continue the therapy. Maybe surgery. They don't know."

"They (the fans) have just got to forget about me until I'm actually out there again. But who knows? Willis Reed might never be back."

So, at 29, Reed's career is definitely in jeopardy, and his teammates realize it, although they remain hopeful.

"His future is definitely in limbo," said Walt Frazier. "He doesn't feel too confident. It's easy for him to get down on himself, not being able to play much this season. Maybe he won't be back this year, but he'll work hard all this summer, knowing him, to come back next year."

Next year, however may not be soon enough for the Knicks, who currently trail the front-running Boston Celtics by four games in the NBA's Atlantic Division.

"We'll just have to go ahead

Greenwich: Law Enforcement Is Mostly Community Service

Sgt. James Gleason

(Last in a Series)
By TOM TIEDE
GREENWICH, Conn. (NEA)—It was one of those days for police Sgt. James Gleason. A good one. An easy one. A more or less normal one in this town. Gleason was in car 57. On the 8 to 4 shift. No hum.

Most of his day was over. And nothing had happened. There was a call from another officer to be on the watch for a sedan being driven by a possible drunk. Other than that the police radio was quiet, which meant the town was, too. Gleason, married, 37 years old, a former Navy submariner, was driving patrol. On back country roads. Past mansions owned by the famous ("That's Victor Borge's place"), along rock walls covered by the dry leaves of early winter.

"Actually," he said, swerving to miss a squirrel in the road, "we don't have a lot of crime here, and most of what we have is minor. Once in awhile we'll get a rape. We also have a number of sneak thieves. But I've been on the force 15 years now and haven't seen a murder. Last guy we had murdered was, let's see, in 1949—22 years ago. Like I say, we don't have much crime here."

Indeed not. Compared with many, if not most, other towns in the United States, Greenwich, Conn., is quiet enough to hear the birds chirp. The town is on the New York-Connecticut border. It's squarely in the midst of the world's largest urban megalopolis. It's only 40 minutes from the muggers of Manhattan. Yet the 60,000 mostly middle-class inhabitants here live in enviable harmony.

Last year, according to police records, there was one rape, 13 robberies, 13 aggravated assaults, 230 burglaries and 129 auto thefts. Yet in similarly populated Greenville, S.C., which is only a line above Greenwich in the FBI's Uniform Crime Reports, there were 25 times the rapes, 18 times the robberies, 26 times the assaults, six times the burglaries, five times the auto thefts (and 25 murders).

Thus it is the cop's lot here is a statistically good one. The job is not completely easy. There are some growing problems. Vandalism is getting out of hand (twice as many kids were arrested last year as in 1967), auto accidents are on the rise (up 20 percent since 1967), and sacking of private residences is, as in every suburban community, a pain. Said Gleason: "We have 148 cops to cover 49 square miles of community, 24 hours a day. It's impossible. A burglar can zip in here from New York on one or two major freeways, rob a place and be long gone before we even know what's happened."

Still, it's not New York, where there are 180,000 burglaries annually, plus 400,000 other crimes, some of which lead to the death or injury of hundreds of policemen every year. The Greenwich police department has never had a policeman die from violence in the line of duty. Sgt. Gleason has never been marked, never had a gun pulled on him, and never been really scared at his post. "You know, really, I can't remember in all 15 years even being called a pig."

And so it is, free from the humiliation and impossible tribulations of many cops in other places, Sgt. Gleason is able to function as a person rather than a badge. His job, according to his police chief, is "only 19 percent law enforcement—most of what our force does is simply community service." Ergo, the cops have time to be polite, to assist a lady locked out of her house, to rescue a cat from a tree. Last year, Greenwich policemen investigated 55 dog bites; damn few policemen, any more, have the time or inclination to investigate dog bites.

"I'm part of the community," Gleason says. Dog bites, flooded cellars, or whatever. "This is my town and I'm interested in helping out wherever I can." For his help, Sgt. Gleason earns $12,000 a year, which isn't in Victor Borge's league, but is better than most U.S. police sergeants, and allows him dignity. He owns his home. Buys a new car now and then. And even captains a 26-foot boat in Long Island Sound. Affluent? No. Comfortable? Yes. "I belong to one of the yacht clubs in town. It's not a really fancy one or expensive, but it's nice to be a member. It's nice to know that even a cop can belong to a yacht club."

The sergeant pulled away from an intersection. He waved to a man working in a yard. He turned down the volume of his short wave (there was nothing on it anyway). "You know Simmons Mattresses?" he said. "Well, Mr. Simmons lives up over there."

He smiled. At ease. At peace. And he slowed his patrol car to avoid another squirrel in the road.

Pay Hike Approved For Rail Trainmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bitterly divided Pay Board again has ignored its own wage guidelines, this time conditionally approving a 10-per-cent pay raise this year for 140,000 railroad trainmen.

But it is uncertain whether the AFL-CIO United Transportation Union will honor the long-delayed pact, which contains streamlined work rules the railroad industry says will speed service and eventually save money.

The UTU had demanded full approval of the pact before putting the new work rules into effect. UTU President A.H. Chesler refused to comment on Tuesday's almost-total approval until he receives official notification of it.

The full UTU contract contains raises of 42 per cent over 3½ years, retroactive more than two years to Jan. 1, 1970. The board cleared the agreement until the present, and said it intends to approve two raises totaling 10 per cent this year if the work rules are put into effect. That leaves uncertain the fate of two raises totaling 5 per cent next year.

The approval motion, which passed 8 to 5 with five labor members and three business members in the majority, in effect grants yet another exception to the board's general rule that wages in new contracts can't go up more than 5.5 per cent a year, or 7 per cent in special circumstances.

The board has yet to apply its 5.5-per-cent guideline strictly to any of the powerful unions whose agreements it has reviewed so far. It rejected a 12-per-cent raise for aerospace workers, but then said it would approve the entire raise if part of it is moved to the second year of a three-year pact.

Tuesday's motion approving the bulk of the UTU contract was sponsored by business member Benjamin F. Biaggini, a railroad executive who sources say strongly wants to see the new work rules put into effect, whatever the price in wages.

Although the board's official spokesmen declined to give details of Tuesday's voting, other sources said the five labor members and three business members made up the majority. Four public members and Chicago publisher Robert Bassett, a business member, voted no. Chairman George H. Boldt abstained and business member Virgil Day left the room during voting.

Sources said that after approval of the trainmen's contract, UAW Vice President Pat Greathouse moved to reinstate the rejected 12 per cent aerospace raise. This move was defeated 9 to 5 with labor in the minority.

Reject Job Bias Enforcement Through Courts

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a showdown on fair employment legislation, the Senate voted yesterday against providing for enforcement through the courts rather than by administrative action.

An amendment by Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., to require court action instead of letting the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission issue cease-and-desist orders was rejected by a 48-46 vote.

Dominick's amendment first was defeated Monday by a 43-41 vote but the Senate later voted to reconsider it, opening the way for today's decisive roll call on the issue.

The EEOC, created by the 1964 Civil Rights Act, now is limited to persuasion and conciliation in trying to carry out a ban on job discrimination based on race, religion, sex and national origin.

The dispute over how to strengthen its enforcement powers was listed by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, D-N.Y., as the key question in the legislation now before the Senate, even though many other issues remain to be settled.

"This will be the showdown on the whole bill," Javits said. President Nixon and various business groups favor the court approach approved by the House last September. Dominick said Tuesday, however, that the White House is not playing an active role in the fight, citing what he said is some division within administration ranks over what type of enforcement would be best.

Civil-rights and labor forces say the agency cannot adequately do its job without power to back its findings.

Dominick contends court enforcement would be faster and more effective than cease-and-desist orders and also would keep the administrative and judicial functions of EEOC separate.

Despite Javits' prediction, the fight over the bill is expected to continue since many other amendments have yet to be acted on.

Chicago Publisher Is Putting Fresh News In Yesterday's Paper

CHICAGO (AP) — A Chicago publisher is putting fresh news in yesterday's paper.

The Chicago Sun-Times for the first time Tuesday was printed in its entirety on paper recycled at a plant in suburban Alsip. The Daily News, also published by Field Enterprises, Inc., will be completely printed on recycled paper next Tuesday.

Spokesmen for the publisher Field Enterprises, which owns the recycling mill jointly with the Garden State Paper Co., said up to 50 per cent of the daily press run of both papers will be printed on the recycled paper. No plans have been announced, however, for total conversion to recycled paper.

A Fields spokesman says it is the only major newspaper publisher in the nation to use recycled paper in its entire editions. The spokesman said that recycling at the Field plant annually conserves 1.5 million trees.

The mill in Alsip is used exclusively for reclaiming old newspapers and turning them into rolls of paper to make new ones.

Waste paper is delivered to the plant in bales and dumped onto a floor on the receiving deck to sort out glossy paper magazines, which are only acceptable in small quantities. Fork-lift trucks that brought in the bales then bulldoze the sorted paper into a huge square bin that carries it to a whirling container known as a batch-pulper.

The paper is reduced and almost completely de-inked under a flood of water and secret chemicals, the spokesman said. The pulp passes through cylinders that remove staples, paperclips and other foreign objects. The ink remaining from the first treatment is then pressed out and filtered away to sewers.

The pulp is washed once more, refined and washed again until it resembles a porridge that is 4 per cent fiber, 96 per cent water.

This ratio is changed to 0.5 per cent fiber, 99.5 per cent water by inundating the so-called porridge with 15,000 gallons of water per minute.

Air is sucked out of the water to avoid holes in the paper and the resulting mixture is ready for the actual paper-making process.

The water is then sucked and pressed from the mixture until the paper fibers knit together to form a relatively smooth mat. The mat is later dried over steam-heated rollers and its surface is smoothed by a series of vertically mounted rollers. The resulting paper is then rolled, cut into reels and stacked for delivery.

The Fields spokesman said the chemical process for removing the ink from the old paper was developed by Richard B. Scudder, former publisher of the Newark News.

After he sold the Newark News Scudder formed the Garden State Paper Co., which manages the Alsip plant.

The plant produces newsprint for several newspapers, most of them in the Midwest, which partially publish on the recycled paper.

Laird Asks Extra Funds To Counter Russ Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, beseeching Congress for an extra $254.8 million this year, has revived a 10-year-old fear about Soviet weapons development.

The source of concern, Laird said Tuesday in testimony before the House Armed Services Committee, is "electromagnetic pulse" which he described as potentially capable of paralyzing U.S. missiles.

Weapons specialists have explained that big nuclear explosions can release electromagnetic surges which travel through the atmosphere and produce sort of a short circuit in electronic components such as those controlling U.S. missiles and antimissile weapons.

Fears about the electromagnetic phenomenon were first voiced by electronics experts a decade ago. U.S. studies of new Soviet warheads show the danger has escalated, Laird hinted at a news conference following his closed session with the committee. He would not elaborate on details of such a threat.

He said the supplemental appropriation he seeks would deal with the problem. The request includes $113.8 million to buy four Boeing 747 aircraft for an advanced airborne command-post program, $89.4 million for research and development, and $23 million for an electromagnetic-pulse simulator and other instruments.

Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, promised a detailed examination of the proposal, but said, too, that delays in acting on defense appropriations "results in the waste of many millions of dollars."

Meanwhile, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield urged Democratic senators to question the wisdom of President Nixon's request for increased defense spending.

"The use of capital expenditures over and above what is necessary only feeds the inflationary forces within our economy," the Montana Democrat asserted.

Former Senator Carl Hayden Dies

MESA, Ariz. (UPI)—Carl Hayden, the laconic Arizona man who spent more years in Congress than any other man, died Tuesday. He was 94.

Carl Hayden

Hayden, who served 56 years in the House of Representatives and the Senate and was once third in line for the presidency, died at Southside Hospital here. He had been a patient since Dec. 30.

Hayden C. Hayden, one of the two nephews who are the only survivors, said Hayden was admitted for "observation," but lapsed into a coma Sunday.

He died at 10:30 p.m. MST (12:30 a.m. yesterday EST), according to the other nephew, Larry Hayden of Tucson. With him were the two nephews, James Minotto, a long time friend.

In addition to his 56-year congressional record, the 41 years Hayden spent in the Senate is also a longevity record.

"The Silent Senator" by Harry S. Truman, Hayden was president pro tempore of the Senate before his retirement four years ago. That made him third in line after the vice president and speaker of the House to become president in the event the chief executive died.

He also served as chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee for 14 years.

Shortly after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, Hayden was asked what he would do if circumstances actually led to his becoming president.

"I'd call Congress together, have the House elect a new speaker, and then I'd resign and let him become president," Hayden replied.

Goes to Washington

Hayden went to Washington D.C. in 1912 as Arizona's first congressman. He served in the Senate from 1926 until his retirement in 1968.

His major achievements were in the area of domestic legislation, particularly measures benefitting Western states.

Hayden sponsored the 19th Amendment in 1919, giving women the vote; the House bill to establish Grand Canyon National Park; and he cosponsored the bill creating Coolidge Dam.

Hayden's political career began in 1902 when he won a Tempe, Ariz., City Council seat. He became sheriff of Maricopa County in 1906, one of his duties being to make sure Indians wore pants in town.

BETHLEHEM STEEL EARNING INCREASE

NEW YORK (AP) — Bethlehem Steel Corp., the second-largest U.S. steelmaker, yesterday announced that its 1971 fourth quarter earnings rose to $1,634,000 from $21,190,000 the previous year, despite slightly lower revenues.

The company reported per share income of $1.16 for the latest quarter, compared with 48 cents a share in the corresponding period of 1970.

Revenues for the quarter ended Dec. 31 totaled $629,880,000, compared with $664,371,000 reported for the same period a year earlier.

U.S. Steel, the nation's biggest steelmaker, reported Tuesday its net income rose 18.9 per cent to $46.4 million on lower revenues in the quarter ended Dec. 31.

LIFTS CAR OFF TRAPPED SON, SAYS FEAT 'NOTHING'

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — Mrs. Norbert See, a 5-foot-5, 120-pound brunette, lifted a 2,000-pound automobile off of her trapped son following a traffic accident, then dismissed the feat as "nothing."

"I knew my boy was under the car and I had to get him out," Mrs. See, 33, said Tuesday. "I didn't notice the weight of the Pinto."

Her son, Mark, 11, was recovering today in a hospital with head and shoulder injuries.

Mrs. See, of Melbourne, Ky., said she was driving home from a veterinarian's office and was distracted when the family Irish setter became sick in the front seat.

The car ran off the road and Mark was thrown out. He was trapped under the car after it hit a pole and rolled over.

"Mark was partially under the car and was complaining of his shoulder, and it was just a small car," said Mrs. See, a part-time secretary.

JOBLESS JANITOR SHOTS 2 POLICEMEN

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An unemployed janitor said he stopped his car and shot two policemen with a rifle Monday because of a sudden impulse to strike against "the system."

Asked by newsmen why he had done it, Junious L. Poole, 21, replied: "Aw, man. It was a fool's play. Just a fool's play."

Poole was arrested several blocks from where he stopped his car and "without saying a word," wounded two officers, one critically.

"They hadn't done anything. It was the whole system," Poole told newsmen from his jail cell. "I don't know why I decided to let them have it. It just jumped out."

Police said Poole had received a number of traffic tickets recently, the last one hour before the shooting. They speculated he was after the officer who issued him the citation and when he couldn't find him, attacked the first policeman he saw.

FLAT TIRE would mean a very big job if it ever occurred on one of the world's largest trucks, a 200-ton dump. The tire alone is 11½ feet high and weighs 7,000 pounds.

Turning to the talks with Kissinger, Nixon's adviser, the statement continued: "In deciding to unilaterally make public the content of the private meetings that his delegates proposed and promised to keep secret, Mr. Nixon gave further proof that his administration was very easy to break engagements."

As to the secret talks themselves, the statement went on: "At the public sessions and the private meetings, through the intermediary of the chief of the U.S. delegation, and through the U.S. President's special adviser, Mr. Kissinger, the Nixon administration did not respond to two questions fundamental for the just and logical peaceful settlement of the Vietnam problem:

"1. It refused to stop the Vietnamization of the war, to pull out from South Vietnam the totality of U.S. troops, military advisers, military personnel, armaments and weapons materials as well as those of the other foreign countries in the U.S. camp, to dismantle U.S. military bases in South Vietnam, and to cease all air and naval activities as well as other acts of war against the Vietnamese people in both zones of Vietnam."

"2. It persisted in maintaining the group of Nguyen Van Thieu and refused to give up its commitment to the latter. On the contrary, it sought by every means to impose on the South Vietnamese people the U.S.-created Saigon puppet regime, its so-called 'constitution' and its 'laws'."

The Viet Cong delegation in Paris said Nixon's speech was "filled with electoral propaganda." The Viet Cong added in a statement: "It sought on one hand to conceal the policy of prolongation and extension of the war of aggression followed by his administration, and on the other hand to continue to avoid a serious response to the legitimate demands of the South Vietnamese people."

A spokesman for the Cambodian government, which receives U.S. aid in battling the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong, said Cambodia welcomed Nixon's proposals, particularly the provision for guarantees for Laos and Cambodia. The spokesman added that there could be no peace in Cambodia until 65,000-70,000 enemy troops withdrew from Cambodia, emphasizing: "Otherwise, there might be peace in Vietnam but not in the rest of Indochina."

Pote Sarasin, a senior member of Thailand's ruling national executive council noted that Nixon's plans "seem to be a reasonable resolution to end the conflict."

Since Thailand is plagued by Communist insurgents, Pote said that any cease-fire must be linked to guarantees of "non-interference in the internal affairs of all Southeast Asian countries."

Nixon's speech also touched off favorable reaction among President Thieu's opponents in South Vietnam. Thieu has announced that he is willing to resign and to guarantee that Communists could take part in new elections.

The British Foreign Office, endorsing Nixon's proposals, issued a statement saying: "Her Majesty's government are in close touch with the United States about their policy in Vietnam and were given advance notice of the President's announcement."

"We believe these are positive and constructive proposals and hope they lead to a negotiated settlement in Indochina," Noboru Takeshita, spokesman for Prime Minister Eisaku Sato of Japan, said Nixon's offer was comprehensive and would permit a settlement.

In Washington Henry A. Kissinger said Wednesday Hanoi had balked at President Nixon's Vietnam peace proposals on two counts: The fine print on blueprints for a U.S. withdrawal and the election of a new Saigon government.

Kissinger, who was Nixon's clandestine go-between in 12 just-disclosed secret Paris conferences with key figures from Hanoi, said at a rare news conference he still hopes for a negotiating breakthrough.

He called the President's eight-point proposal a flexible one, not a take-it-or-leave-it proposition.

The President's far-traveled assistant for National Security Affairs said Nixon, by publicizing 26 months of secret negotiations in an address to the nation Tuesday night may spur North Vietnam to resume talks "on a somewhat more urgent basis."

Nixon unfolded a peace offer that includes an Indochina cease-fire, withdrawal of American forces and release of prisoners, new elections in South Vietnam with the Viet Cong participating, and resignation of the Saigon government a month before the internationally supervised balloting.

Under the Nixon plan, all these developments would take place within six months after a Washington-Hanoi agreement.

The basics of the proposal have been in Hanoi's hands since October, Nixon said, but Hanoi has given no response.

Comment from Congress members tended to follow party lines but with the Democratic presidential aspirants in the Senate most critical.

For example, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the 1968 Democratic nominee and an aspirant again this year, complained that Nixon's proposals do not offer a precise date for withdrawal of U.S. forces in return for release of U.S. prisoners.

Similarly, he said the plan for South Vietnamese elections "if it were coupled with a withdrawal date could present a strong possibility of breaking the deadlock."

On the other hand, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said Nixon's disclosure of the administration prolonged secret peace efforts has dealt a lethal blow to the Democrats' hopes of winning the presidency this year.

He said Nixon's move has virtually "sprung a trap" on Democratic who have asserted that the administration has done nothing to end the war.

Kissinger said a secret nine-point Hanoi peace offer has, as a result of talks he had in Paris last year, been boiled down to two stumbling blocks.

Seven of the nine North Vietnamese proposals "have been reduced to manageable proportions," he reported.

But he said Washington and Hanoi remain apart on specific terms of a U.S. withdrawal and ways to establish a new government in Saigon.

The North Vietnamese, he said, want Nixon to agree to withdraw all American forces by a fixed date and, in addition, remove all equipment and supplies—even items already in the hands of the South Vietnamese army—as well as promising to end all U.S. aid to Saigon.

Kissinger said cutting off aid and removing equipment from an ally would be patently unfair inasmuch as, by his estimate, Hanoi receives $800 million to $1 billion in annual aid from its friends.

The security affairs adviser pictured Hanoi as insisting that the United States directly overthrow the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu or do so indirectly by stripping him of military and economic aid.

Besides expressing a hope that Nixon's public disclosure of secret talks may spur new negotiations, Kissinger offered a hopeful appraisal of a Communist offensive that apparently is developing in Indochina.

"We believe that we can contain the offensive," said Kissinger, "and it is even possible, maybe even probable that the reason they make the offensive is as a prelude to a subsequent negotiation."

Kissinger, who had 13 secret meetings in Paris with top representatives of North Vietnam, said that in most cases he flew by military aircraft to small, then transferred once or twice to other aircraft which took him to "a little-used air field" near the French capital.

He said he kept out of sight by staying on the outskirts of Paris and meeting at remote sites which he said were chosen by the Communist negotiators.

Kissinger said he did not want to go into other details on his methods of getting to Paris, and moving around in France without detection because "we may want to do it again."

Several relatives of American prisoners of war in Vietnam Wednesday praised President Nixon's peace proposals, calling them generous and positive. But there was some doubt voiced.

The next move in efforts to end the war and win release of POWs is up to North Vietnam and the Viet Cong, agreed four leaders of the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia.

But, they added, they will not be satisfied until their husbands, brothers and sons are home. And they intend to follow through with their plan to keep the issue before the voters in this presidential election year.

They announced plans to create a Nonpartisan Political Action Committee through which the POW issue and various candidates' positions on the matter. However, they said at a news conference, they will not endorse presidential candidates.

Miss Sheila Cronin, sister of a man held prisoner in North Vietnam for five years and a national coordinator of the smaller and more militant Families for Immediate Release, said Nixon's Tuesday speech had too many holes.

Miss Cronin, 25, of Silver Spring, Md., said of the eight points in the Nixon proposal: "President Nixon didn't say anything about withdrawing from Cambodia or Laos or about aircraft in the 7th Fleet and in Thailand. I'm leery. I hope the plan is accepted, but I'm worried about these points."

Miss Cronin said the Families for Immediate Release will go ahead with previously announced plans to campaign in states with presidential primary elections for candidates who favor a fixed deadline for withdrawal of U.S. forces from Indochina.

Four spokesmen for the more conservative League of Families were not eager to discuss possible North Vietnamese rejection of Nixon's plan. They refused also to say what position the league will take if the plan is rejected.

Several names in a previous account were unintentionally omitted. Mr. Duvendack was born July 21, 1921, in Morgan County, son of Rudolph and Ellen Rausch Duvendack.

His mother preceded in death and his father resides in Meredosia. He married Arnette Vincent Oct. 10, 1943. She survives with these children: Jimmie, with the U.S. Army in Vietnam; Cheryl, wife of James Hodge of Jacksonville, North Carolina; Randy, student at Western Illinois University; and Ricky at home; and a brother, Robert Duvendack of Meredosia. There is one grandson.

Mr. Duvendack was a member of Trinity Lutheran church. Friends may call at Williamson Funeral Home at any time. The family suggests those wishing to consider memorials to Trinity Lutheran church, east of Meredosia.

This is something new for the center and it is hoped it will be beneficial to all.

Appreciation is given the Christian Women's Fellowship of the First Christian church for the new geriatric chair they donated and to Mrs. Nimrod Funk for the quilt blocks.

Set Duvendack Rites Thursday

Funeral services for Richard W. Duvendack, rural Versailles farmer who died Sunday at Culbertson hospital in Rushville, will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at Williamson Funeral Home. Rev. Thomas Ross of the Versailles Christian church will officiate and interment will be in Trinity Lutheran church cemetery east of Meredosia.

Several names in a previous account were unintentionally omitted. Mr. Duvendack was born July 21, 1921, in Morgan County, son of Rudolph and Ellen Rausch Duvendack.

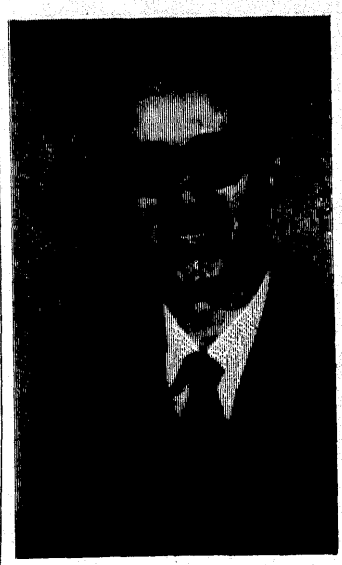

His mother preceded in death and his father resides in Meredosia. He married Arnette Vincent Oct. 10, 1943. She survives with these children: Jimmie, with the U.S. Army in Vietnam; Cheryl, wife of James Hodge of Jacksonville, North Carolina; Randy, student at Western Illinois University; and Ricky at home; and a brother, Robert Duvendack of Meredosia. There is one grandson.

Mr. Duvendack was a member of Trinity Lutheran church. Friends may call at Williamson Funeral Home at any time. The family suggests those wishing to consider memorials to Trinity Lutheran church, east of Meredosia.

Chicken breasts may be cooked instead of whole chickens and will yield a little more meat than a whole chicken of similar weight.

Illinois Court Denies Abortion To Young Girl

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) —

The Illinois Supreme Court ruled Wednesday that a 15-year-old Chicago girl may not have a therapeutic abortion even though she had threatened suicide if her pregnancy were not terminated.

The court, in a 4-3 decision, overruled a lower court decision which had allowed the teen-ager to have the abortion.

Circuit Court Judge William P. White had approved the abortion after hearing testimony from two psychiatrists who said the girl had suicidal tendencies and might take her own life if the abortion was not approved.

The Supreme Court said an opinion will be filed at a future date and did not comment further on its ruling. The ruling was announced from the bench by Chief Justice Robert C. Underwood.

Patrick Murphy, an attorney for the girl, said that he will take the case to the federal courts because, he said, he thinks the ruling is unconstitutional.

Illinois law allows therapeutic abortions on purely medical grounds, where the mother's life may be in danger. Court opinions in previous cases have left a question about whether that applies to psychiatric grounds.

There have been three attempts to amend the law to include psychiatric cases.

Murphy said: "The law as interpreted by the court seems to be unconstitutional and cuts out a class of people for whom it might be necessary to have an abortion."

Asst. State Atty. Robert Novelle of Cook County, who had argued for the state, said lower court testimony had shown that up to 85 per cent of the abortions conducted in hospitals across the country were based on psychiatric grounds.

Novelle told newsmen after the ruling: "We don't know what significance it will have, but hospitals would be advised to hold these kinds of abortions in abeyance."

Hijack

Later the pilot radioed: "He isn't sure whether she's going or not. He says she'll get her instruction after we are airborne."

Still later the pilot reported the hijacker "seems to be getting a little edgier."

A plane had landed with the parachutes, and the tower suggested that they be sent out to the hijacked plane, although the money had not arrived.

The pilot reported that he had asked the hijacker to go along with the suggestion, but he had refused.

The pilot said several times that the hijacker "seems to know what he's doing."

When the tower reported to the pilot that it would take an expert to parachute from the FH277 twin-engine turboprop, without getting hit by the tail or propeller, and offered to give him the stewardess instructions in parachuting, the pilot replied:

"No, he says he's an expert on 'chutes."

Irving

arguments in chambers. Hughes swore the affidavit in the Bahamas on Friday before a notary licensed in Nevada. Questions had been raised about the Nevada's legal status in the Bahamas.

In the statement, the reclusive industrialist said he "never authorized" authors Robert P. Eaton or Irving to publish "anything by or about me."

Each man has written a book claimed to be derived from conversations with Hughes.

"I do not personally know either Robert P. Eaton or Clifford Irving," the Hughes statement said.

Howard L. Eckersley of Nevada, said to be a Hughes confidant, notarized the affidavit in Nassau.

Acceptance of the affidavit was a victory for Rosemont Enterprises, which claims to have exclusive rights to Hughes' life story.

The Nevada corporation has asked the courts to prohibit distribution of the Eaton book, called "My Life and Opinions," the Irving book, Eaton excerpts in the Ladies Home Journal, Irving excerpts in Life magazine and paperbacks.

Lawyers opposing Rosemont sought to have the affidavit disqualified on the grounds that only a member of the U.S. consulate in a foreign country could attest to the authenticity.

Irving told newsmen before he left his home in Ibiza in the Balearic Islands that he was returning to try and untangle the mysteries that have arisen over the purported autobiography of the secretive industrialist.

At the same time, Irving's New York lawyer, Martin Ackerman, was quoted as saying that he had summoned the author back here and that "Cliff has nothing to hide. He'll take on all inquiries."

Hours later, however, Ackerman's secretary said no news conference was anticipated upon Irving's arrival. Ackerman himself was unavailable for comment.

Before leaving Ibiza, Irving said he was flying to New York for a court appearance in a libel suit against him over a previous book.

In coming to New York, Irving and his wife, Edith, passed up a request from Swiss police to go to Zurich for questioning about the mysterious deposits and withdrawals of the checks from McGraw-Hill.

Police in Zurich are attempting to track down a woman who held a bank account under the name "H.R. Hughes" and who subsequently withdrew the money. Police said the woman used the name Helga R. Hughes.

Hughes' lawyers said the billionaire, who lives in strict seclusion in a hotel penthouse in the Bahamas, had never received any of the McGraw-Hill money and charged that a fraud had been perpetrated.

The storm arose after the publishing concern announced it would bring out a book which Irving said he had compiled in a series of interviews with the industrialist over a period of months.

A voice said to be that of Hughes, in a long-distance telephone news conference, denied he had ever met Irving or that he had authorized the book. He said the same thing in statements filed with the court by his lawyers, the latest of which asserted he had never received the checks from McGraw-Hill.

Both McGraw-Hill and Time Inc., which planned to run three excerpts from the book in Life magazine, have withheld publication of the Irving book pending the outcome of the investigation into the Swiss account.

SHUTTLE COST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., says the proposed space shuttle will cost the taxpayers as much as $52 billion—compared with the space agency's estimate of $10 billion to $14 billion.

The shuttle would be a reusable spacecraft which could make repeated trips to orbiting space platforms and back to earth. Mondale said the space agency's estimate was low because it does not include the cost of the space platform, final development costs and other factors.

Business — Market Wrapup

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite efforts made to make the budget appear to be one of carefully considered options, it is apparent that it is one imposed by circumstances, domestic and international, that leave few choices.

Otherwise, no administration seeking recognition for fiscal responsibility would accept the dangers of running a planned deficit of $25.5 billion in 1973 on top of an estimated $38.8 billion deficit in 1972.

The many economic risks involved in such deficits may be summed up in one phrase: The dangers are equal to the potential benefits. Disequilibrium rather than stability could be the legacy.

A deficit might get the economy moving again, but not without risking reinflation and a possible loss of foreign trade. It might reduce unemployment but conceivably add to it later.

The issue of circumstance is revealed politically, ideologically, financially. The administration believes in one position but takes another.

The President knows the dangers of oversteering, but he knows too that if he doesn't find jobs he'll lose votes. Already he is branded with an economic record that has been often daring but often ineffective.

Again, the President obviously wishes to be acclaimed for fiscal responsibility, but he has been forced for three years to make radical changes in his own and the party's ideology and now is an advocate of huge deficits.

The vice also is tightened by military considerations. The President presents himself as a man of peace and has taken many steps in that direction, but because of circumstances he feels are beyond his control he seeks a military budget of more than $85 billion.

But nowhere is the near absence of choice appreciated until it is realized that 70 per cent of the $246.3 billion budget is to finance projects to which the country already is committed by law or contract.

The result of trying to make his mark with the remaining 30 per cent necessitates that the President risk a considerable amount of brinkmanship.

Deficits generally get out of hand. Circumstances that cannot be foreseen and sometimes not even understood in retrospect make events quite different from the forecast.

is for these to go on continuously.

Villages are being helped to set up local militia units to put a halt to a terrorism which has become increasingly disruptive.

The plan calls for social and economic reforms to cut the base out from the Communist political arguments.

Because agent reports indicate the Communist apparatus in the cities and towns is dominated by local Chinese families and by Thai-Chinese, Bangkok officials are putting a new premium on infiltrating local Chinese merchant and "family" organizations.

U.S. officials here are privately deeply concerned over these Thai developments. But so far as this reporter can determine, no decision has been made here as to what role the United States should play.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices dropped for the sixth straight session Wednesday. Trading was moderate.

The closing Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell 5.57 to 889.15.

John Smith, an analyst at Farnestock & Co., noted the market Wednesday just picked up where it left off Tuesday. The market rallied briefly Tuesday with the announcement President Nixon would make a major foreign policy address that night, but closed lower.

"Investors felt there was nothing new in the speech, and so the market resumed the pattern it had traced in the past six sessions, and prices dropped," Smith explained.

The New York Stock Exchange index of 1,300 common stocks dropped .09 to 56.77.

Big Board volume was 14.95 million shares compared with 17.57 million shares.

There were 684 advances and 718 declines out of 1,733 issues traded on the Big Board. The market had 33 new yearly highs and 7 new lows.

The Associated Press 60 stock average dipped 1.2 to 326.4, with industrials off 2.5, rails off .9, and utilities up .3.

There were 102 big blocks of 10,000 shares or more traded on the Big Board, compared with 132 Tuesday. The biggest was 199,900 shares of Owens-Illinois at 43.03.

Steels and farm implements were higher. Motors, rubber, issues, farm implements, and metals were lower. All other stock categories were mixed.

Volume leader on the Big Board was Owens-Illinois, off 2½ at 43.03.

American Stock Exchange prices rose. The Amex price-change index gained .03 to 26.59. Volume was 4.51 million shares compared with 4.87 million shares Tuesday. There were 427 advances and 469 declines out of 1,177 issues traded.

BIKE FASTER
WILLICH, West Germany (UPI) — This rural village bought its volunteer fire chief a fire engine red bicycle and called it progress. A town spokesman said the residents decided the chief could travel faster on the bicycle than by car to the fire station 100 yards from his home.

WINCHELL HOSPITALIZED
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Walter Winchell has been hospitalized at UCLA Medical Center, but a hospital spokesman declined today to reveal the nature of his illness or his condition.

JUST IN CASE
FLORENCE, Italy (UPI) — When police raided Mario Carlini's home to search for robbery loot, they got a surprise. Lined up in a closet were 21 skulls.

Carlini told police he stole them from graves and sold them "to people who happened to ask me for them."

RECALLS 'QUEEN' AS TROOPSHIP FOR ALLIES IN WWII

JERSEYVILLE - News of the recent burning of the "Queen Elizabeth" in the Hong Kong harbor brought to mind memories of the luxury liner by a Jerseyville resident.

Ralph T. "Shorty" Johnson of 100 Hazel street was a passenger on the liner in 1945 when she made her last trip to carry G.I.s. Johnson returned to the States from Frankfurt, Germany, via Southampton, England.

He said they left England on October 4, 1945, and arrived in New York 5 1/2 days later. Recalling the trip, Johnson said 17,500 passengers and crew members were aboard and they slept in aisles, elevators and even "bathtubs." He said the luxury liner compared in size with the city of Jerseyville.

Johnson, who served almost three years with the Army of Occupation in Frankfurt, Germany, returned to the States under the 38-year age limit provisions.

The Queen, launched in 1939, made her maiden voyage to New York in 1940. During World War II she served as a troopship and for years after the war she was the pride of the North Atlantic sea lanes.

CURTAINED COURTSHIP - MANILA (UPI) - Long courtship is no longer followed by urban residents, a sociological study by the State University of the Philippines reports.

Sociologist Bolen Medina said shorter courtship periods imply that city inhabitants no longer observe the traditional consultations with relatives, the tedious dowry negotiations and the services that the would-be bridegroom had to render in the girl's house.

HOSPITAL THEFTS - NEW YORK (UPI) - More than $100 million worth of goods, ranging from bed sheets to medical instruments, is stolen every year from hospitals in the United States says a security expert.

Most hospital losses are inside jobs, Eugene Fuss, Honeywell security engineer, reported to the American Society for Industrial Security. There are more than 3,000 hospital items that can be used in a home, and there is a ready market for medical instruments and electronic devices, he said.

State Opposes Plan To Burn Defoliant

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency said Wednesday it will not permit destruction in Illinois of 2.3 million gallons of a plant killer that has been banned in Vietnam.

The Air Force had proposed to burn the herbicide, code-named Orange, in commercial incinerators at Saugey, Ill., across the Mississippi River from St. Louis, or at Deer Park, Tex.

"We do not feel that Illinois citizens should be subjected to the risk of potential accident in the transportation, storage and actual destruction of the defoliant," says William L. Blaser, director of the Illinois agency.

The herbicide, used in Vietnam to strip away jungle cover concealing enemy troops and supplies, was outlawed in Vietnam after tests showed it may have caused animal birth defects.

A spokesman for the EPA said Tuesday that the Air Force had been advised the defoliant could be incinerated with certain stipulations, "assuring there would be no possibility of environmental damage."

But Blaser issued a statement Wednesday indicating that incineration would not be allowed in Illinois.

Blaser noted that the Air Force had submitted an environmental-impact statement to the EPA in November and said the EPA must issue a permit before the incineration would be permitted.

"From what we know now," Blaser said, "We would not grant such a permit."

A spokesman in Blaser's office was asked if the Air Force might provide additional information which would change the EPA's thinking on the matter.

"We assume they have given us all the information they have," the spokesman said Wednesday.

The EPA calculated that the Monsanto Chemical Co. incinerator at Saugey would require several years to complete destruction of the defoliant, even if it were used 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

"Air Force officials have themselves conceded that leakage of the chemical is an increasing threat due to deterioration of the metal containers over time," Blaser said. "We could not rationalize exposing the people of this state to even such minimal dangers as may be involved."

Blaser said neither the Air Force nor Monsanto has filed an application with the EPA for a permit to incinerate the herbicide.

A Monsanto spokesman said his firm will "cooperate fully with the Illinois EPA and the decision they have made."

"Although we believe it is technically possible to dispose of herbicides in highly efficient incinerators, our incinerator at Saugey has a very limited capacity," the Monsanto spokesman said.

The Defense Department banned the use of the defoliant in 1970, shortly after the Agriculture Department banned the use of a similar commercial herbicide around homes, water areas and food crops.

The Air Force was left with 2.3 million gallons of Orange worth $16.9 million, most of it stored in 55-gallon steel drums in Vietnam.

Ogilvie Asks Help For East St. Louis

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie has asked the federal government to declare East St. Louis a national disaster area after a series of explosions ripped through the community last Saturday.

A spokesman for the governor said Wednesday that Val Oshel, state Civil Defense director, was dispatched to Washington to make a personal plea for aid in behalf of the stricken town.

Oshel was to confer with Maj. Gen. George Lincoln, director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, which handles disaster declarations on the presidential level, the spokesman said.

A series of blasts in the city's rail yards injured more than 197 persons and destroyed or damaged hundreds of homes, four schools and businesses, Ogilvie said. Damage has been estimated at more than $7 million.

Ogilvie toured the area Tuesday during a stopover on his return trip from Washington where he had testified on welfare reform before a senate committee.

The governor Monday declared the community a state disaster area making available state financial assistance.

No-Fault Ruling Challenged By Blacks

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Five black citizens' groups asked permission Wednesday to intervene in the no-fault insurance dispute before the Illinois Supreme Court, requesting reversal of a Circuit Court ruling that declared the state's modified no-fault insurance plan unconstitutional.

The brief criticized the grounds on which Judge Daniel A. Covelii of Circuit Court ruled the plan unconstitutional.

At a Chicago news conference after the filing of the brief, the groups said Covelii, "under the guise of supposedly protecting the rights of black people," struck down the plan "which can only benefit our community and put our people on more equal footing with others when we are injured in auto accidents."

The five black groups are the Insurance Brokers Association of Chicago, the United Mortgage Bankers of America Inc., Cosmopolitan Chamber of Commerce, Chicago Urban League and PUSH (People United to Save Humanity).

Covelii declared the plan unconstitutional Dec. 29, saying it discriminated against blacks and members of low-income groups.

The plan was to have gone into effect Jan. 1.

Justice Thomas E. Kluczynski of the Illinois Supreme Court refused to overturn Covelii's ruling at a hearing Jan. 4, but said insurance companies could put no-fault benefits into effect on their own.

Under the modified no-fault plan, insured persons involved in auto accidents are reimbursed for injury by their own insurance company within 30 days, regardless of who was at fault in the accident.

The full Supreme Court is scheduled to hear oral arguments Friday on a petition to overturn Covelii's ruling.

Jacksonville Savings, Loan Has 55th Annual

Members of Jacksonville Savings and Loan met at the office of the Association Jan. 25 for its 55th consecutive annual meeting.

A. Wadsworth Applebee, president, commented on the housing picture for 1972 as he presented the institution's annual report.

"The housing picture for 1972 looks good for the Jacksonville community, particularly if area families continue saving their money at nearly the same rate as in 1971. We are predicting continued favorable savings flows and an ample supply of mortgage money for the year ahead. On the basis of present prospects, mortgage rates should remain at approximately their present levels during the early months of 1972, and interest on savings accounts should also remain the same," he said.

New Highs In '71
The year 1971 was the best year in the history of the savings and loan industry. During October, assets passed the magic $200 million mark. It took 46 years for the business to reach the $100 million mark in 1963. It took only eight years to accumulate the second $100 million, a remarkable achievement for any system of financial institutions.

This past year was a highly successful one for Jacksonville Savings and Loan. Mr. Applebee reported as of December 31, 1971, total assets of the association were $30,809,456, an increase during the year of $2,558,169; of these, savings on deposit amounted to $26,523,751 and mortgage loans on the books totaled $24,860,372. Savings deposits during 1971 increased by $2,267,561, up 9.3 percent from a year ago.

"During the past year we paid $1,292,788 in dividends to our 7,571 savings investors, a record amount for this association. After payments to savers and operating expenses, we put aside $243,231 for reserves, making our total reserves $3,515,502." The association was responsible for the financing of 283 homes and apartments in the Jacksonville area. In all, $4,118,670 was invested in mortgage loans.

"Since mid-August," Mr. Applebee said, "the Administration's anti-inflation efforts have been productive. If progress along this line can be continued, we should have another excellent year in 1972."

New Services
After installation in November and December of the latest in teller terminals, on-line computer service was inaugurated at the association in early January. On-line computer systems permit direct access to a central computer where all account records are maintained and updated by electronic memory. The Federal Home Loan Bank of Chicago Data Center provides such an automated on-line system to Jacksonville Savings.

Benefits of an on-line system provide customers with more rapid service as transactions are processed with computer speed. Improved control and accuracy are assured with less manual supervision and intervention.

Births
Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Coultas of Winchester have received word of the birth of a daughter to their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Jacobs of Peoria, Jan. 22 at St. Francis hospital in Peoria. She has been named Laura Jean. The mother is the former Connie Coultas. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Marion Jacobs of Peoria.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Myers, 434 East Washington St., became parents of a daughter at 11:35 a.m. Wednesday at Passavant hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kilver of Bluffs became parents of a daughter at 12:42 p.m. Wednesday at Passavant hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Parish, 1315 West College Ave., became parents of a daughter at 5:56 p.m. Wednesday at Passavant hospital.

DRIVERS CITED AFTER COLLISIONS
City police officers ticketed two drivers Wednesday after investigating traffic accidents in the city.

Grover A. Baker, 87, of 325 Marion St., was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way after his auto was struck at the intersection of East Morton and Hardin avenues, about 8 a.m.

Officers reported the Baker auto was eastbound on Morton, turning left, when it was hit by a westbound car operated by John C. Rueblich, 34, of R.R. 4 Jacksonville.

Carole J. Chapman, 20, of R.R. 1 Kane, Ill., was ticketed for illegally starting from a parking space after a collision in the 300 block of East State st. about 2 p.m.

Officers said the Chapman car pulled from the curb and was hit by an eastbound auto driven by Richard A. Jarvis, 18, of 913 S. Main st.

Also new in 1971, and not unnoticed, is the electronic Message Center which was added to the time and temperature sign on the square. This versatile community message center is offered for use by non-profit civic groups for promotion of their special projects.

Directors
During the annual meeting the following directors were re-elected to serve for 1972: A. W. Applebee, attorney and president of Jacksonville Savings and Loan Association; Robert S. Bills, owner and manager of Rose L. P. Gas Company; Francis J. Clancy, partner, Gold Coast Trailer Sales; Robert E. Neff, president, Neff Colvin, Inc.; A. G. Pearce, tax consultant; Harvey D. Appeals Court Denies Motion By Kerner

CHICAGO (AP)—A five-judge panel of the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals denied Wednesday a motion by defense attorneys for Otto Kerner, former Illinois governor, to halt a hearing scheduled for Thursday in Knoxville, Tenn.

The request for a stay of the Knoxville hearing was made earlier Wednesday after a committee of U.S. District Court judges denied a defense motion challenging the appointment of Judge Robert L. Taylor of U.S. District Court in Knoxville to hear the trial of Kerner and four other defendants.

Kerner and the others are charged with conspiring to commit bribery and mail fraud in connection with race track stock transactions.

Kerner, governor from 1960 to 1968, was appointed to the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in 1968 and has taken a leave from his judicial duties pending the outcome of his trial.

Charged with Kerner were Theodore J. Isaacs, 61, director of state revenue under Kerner's administration; William S. Miller, 70, former chairman of the Illinois racing board; Joseph E. Knight, 60, former director of state financial institutions, and Miss Faith McInturf, a former secretary and business associate of Miller.

They were indicted on charges of arranging for members of Kerner's administration to purchase stock in exchange for the awarding of choice racing dates.

NORTHCUTT ENDS 30 YEARS SERVICE IN BEARDSTOWN
BEARDSTOWN — Thirty years of government service as an appeals attorney for the Selective Service in Cass county have ended for veteran Beardstown lawyer, R. L. Northcutt.

He has been retired from active service in this capacity because of new government regulations dismissing these agents.

After passing the State Bar Association examinations, Northcutt was employed in the law office of the late W. H. Dieterich, a congressman and United States senator. He became a partner in the firm and held the post of assistant attorney general of Illinois for eight years.

When World War II broke out, he was appointed to Selective Service board work. He has conducted a long and successful law business in Cass county with offices in this city.

The Northcutts are parents of a son, Robert, Beardstown funeral director, and a daughter, Mrs. Shirley Gross.

Northcutt also served as a member of the Schmitt Memorial hospital board.
